

Account: scstateparks

Content type: Instagram Business - Media

Record ID: 20210504South-Carolina-State-ParksMedia52751_2566238386858741452_261427093

scstateparks #TuesdayTidbit Did you know that Andrew Jackson State Park has a slight connection to Huntington Beach State Park? "The Boy of the Waxhaws" statue located at the park was sculpted by Anna Hyatt Huntington. Does that name sound familiar? 🤔 Within Huntington Beach State Park is the National Historic Landmark, Atalaya. This Moorish-style castle served as the winter home of Archer and Anna Hyatt Huntington. Anna Hyatt Huntington was an American sculptor who on her winter visits used Atalaya as a studio to sculpt live animals! So the next time you visit either park, be sure to snap a picture and connect the dots between two awesome South Carolina State Parks! 📍Andrew Jackson State Park 📍 @theinkykitty
at 14:44:36 on 5/04/2021 UTC

scstateparks #SCStateParks #DiscoverSC #FindYourPark #ComeOutAndPlay
#SouthCarolinaStateParks #AndrewJacksonStatePark #AndrewJackson
#HuntingtonBeachStatePark #Huntington #ParkHistory #AnnaHyattHuntington #Sculptor #SCArt
#ArtFacts
at 14:44:54 on 5/04/2021 UTC

Tags: deleted

stateparkmyrtlebeachsc ❤️🌳🐼
at 14:45:00 on 5/04/2021 UTC

mimi_faile I've been to both..... beautiful statue!!
at 14:51:34 on 5/04/2021 UTC

susanmpostmus Brookgreen Gardens pertinent?
at 15:29:03 on 5/04/2021 UTC

cinnamon.double.s Very nice
at 1:07:03 on 5/07/2021 UTC