It's #GivingTuesday!

Dear Kevin,

Today, we're joining thousands of organizations worldwide to celebrate #GivingTuesday, the global day of giving. Over the next 24 hours, people around the world are donating to organizations meaningful to them, and we hope that you'll remember the Wilson Center—especially in this, our 50th-anniversary year.

For the last five decades, we have served as a bridge between the world of ideas and the world of policy—providing non-partisan research, analysis, and actionable ideas to policymakers and the public in Washington and throughout the world.

On this #GivingTuesday, our goal is to raise $5,000 to help us pursue the critical work that has been our signature since our founding—now more critical than ever in our era of partisan rancor and information pollution.

Will you step up and invest in our mission with a gift of \$50, \$100, or more right now?

You'll be helping us to continue serving as the convening place where Washington meets the world—and you'll be making a statement of support for a clear-eyed, fact-based approach to the challenges we face together, from North Korean denuclearization to Central American migration.

If you donate more than $1,000, you'll be invited to our exclusive “Day at Wilson,” where you'll interact with some of the top thinkers, opinion-makers, and experts in Washington and beyond.

Today, on #GivingTuesday, will you make a contribution of \$50, \$100, or more and invest in the Wilson Center's important work?
