SC Ag Council . . . Farm-City and Agritourism

The SC Agriculture Council (SCAC) fall meeting to launch the Farm-City Week Kick-off will be held on Thursday, November 8, 2001, at Harmon's Tree Farm and Christmas House in Lexington.

National Farm-City Week, celebrated the week of Thanksgiving-November 16-22, was established in 1955 by Kiwanis International and other organizations to focus on the interdependence of rural and urban residents who make our food and fiber system the envy of the world. Faith Lawrimore, SC Farm Bureau, and Hank Stallworth, Office of the Governor, are scheduled to speak on the subject.

In addition to the Farm-City Week Kick-off, the program will focus on South Carolina agritourism. Speakers will include: Rena

SC Aquaculture 2001

Aquaculture farmers, farm pond owners, and those interested in entering the aquaculture field are invited to attend South Carolina Aquaculture 2001, on November 15, 2001. The South Carolina Aquaculture Association sponsors the meeting. The annual meeting will feature the discussion of a draft proposal of new legislation Aquaculture Enabling Act of 2002, which, when passed, would allow permitted commercial aquaculture production of almost every species in South Carolina including gamefish. This legislation has great potential for the expansion of Aquaculture in South Carolina.

The afternoon session will offer the unique opportunity to interact with leaders of the regulatory agencies, researchers as well as state Legislators. There will also be discussions on expanded opportunities for Aquaculture including catfish, shrimp, clams, hybrid striped bass, crawfish, farm pond stocking and Aquaculture suppliers. Attendees will have the opportunity to sell, purchase or trade aquaculture equipment and supplies. Bring a description or photo of any surplus items that you would like to sell or trade to be posted at the meeting. A lunch buffet will be served and will be included in the registration fee.

Registration for the meeting is free for current Aquaculture Association members (2001 Membership. Registration for non-members which includes membership for one year is $35 per person.

For more information call Gerry Bonnette, SC Department of Agriculture, 803-734-2210, or Jack Whetstone, Clemson University/Sea Grant Extension Program, 843-546-4481.

CCA Adviser & Exam Prep Workshops

The Clemson Extension Service of Calhoun County and Clarendon County invite advisers and consultants who spend the majority of their time advising growers on agronomic practices to attend a CERTIFIED CROP ADVISER (CCA) WORKSHOP on November 28-30, 2001 at the Ramada Inn in Santee, SC.

To be a CCA, advisers and consultants must meet the requirements of the American Society of Agronomy's Certified Crop Adviser Program. In order to be certified in the program, participants must earn 40 hours of continuing education (CEUs) every two years and comply with certain other criteria. With the topics to be covered at the Santee workshop, each participant should be able to acquire the 5 credits needed in each of the 4 competency areas necessary to be certified for the year.

A $120 fee registers participants for the entire workshop and includes class material, speaker handouts, refreshment breaks, and lunch each day. For those who cannot or do not wish to attend the entire session, registration is $50 a day.

In addition, an EXAM PREP WORKSHOP will be held on November 29-30 during the Adviser Workshop. The Exam Prep

W.R. "Bill" Simpson puts SC in the spotlight

Bill Simpson of Manning, South Carolina, farms on land that's been in his family for almost 100 years. Building on his heritage, he and his family have developed the farm into a well-run diversified 1900-acre operation that has survived Hurricane Hugo, droughts, and other natural disasters in addition to difficult economic times.

No one can tell his story better than Bill himself. The following are excerpts from his nomination for South Carolina's Lancaster/Sunbelt Expo Farmer of the Year that will touch your heart.

Farming was a childhood dream of mine. As a kid, I plowed and planted my own crops. With advice from my father and local farmers, my meager crops prospered. They cured my tobacco and helped me market it. There were 8 children in my family, and the money I earned often went to my mother and father to help pay the bills. I also worked on local farms as I grew up, and later I left the farm to manage a service station in Sumter. But, the smell of freshly tilled soil and the miracle of growth from a small seed always intrigued me and would ultimately bring me back--heart and soul--to farming.

I married [Daisy] in 1968, worked full time, and farmed as a hobby. Bill Jr. was born in 1969, and the thought of becoming a full-time farmer turned in my mind. In 1971, I had 30 acres of corn and gathered less than 300 bushels because of corn blight. I owed $800 for two tractors and couldn't make the payment on either tractor. Another farmer took up the payment on one tractor, and I took another job to make the payment on the other tractor. We also ran a service station and later a family-owned convenience store to supplement our income.

The worst drought of the southeast in 1986 brought many a farmer to his knees and to the auction block. Farmers were going out of business everywhere. I took a good look at my operation and decided I needed to make changes if I wanted to survive. I started using chicken manure instead of fertilizer. I also had irrigation lines installed to pump waste from a neighboring hog farm onto our farm. I cut costs any way I could to make land and equipment payments. To help supplement our income, Bill Jr. and I started a firewood business and my wife and daughters began a cleaning business, called "Clean as a Daisy."

The biggest problem we faced since we started farming was Hurricane Hugo in 1989. Although we had droughts in 1986, 1998, 1999, and 2000, Hugo devastated our farm in one night. Our home, the sheds, equipment, fields, forests, and crops that took years to manage and develop were gone all at once. It took several years to get things back to normal. We still have trees falling around the fields from the damage done 12 years ago.

I owe my success to good management, family involvement, and, most of all, the good Lord's blessing. I have faith that when I plant my seed, the good Lord will help me see it through to the harvest.

Now, you can see why his Clarendon County Extension Agent, Russell Duncan nominated Bill Simpson, and why he was selected as South Carolina's Lancaster/Sunbelt Expo Farmer of the Year. As the South Carolina winner, Bill received a well-deserved $1,500 cash award from Swisher International, an expense paid trip to the Sunbelt Expo, and a $500 gift certificate from Southern States Cooperative.

Congratulations, Bill. You have made all of us in South Carolina very proud. On behalf of everyone who benefits from the fruits of your labor, we wish you well in your personal goals and in your future agricultural endeavors.

Sunbelt knows a winner when they see one. So do we. Keep up the good work, Bill, and thank you for keeping South Carolina in the spotlight for agriculture.

EQIP Sign-up

The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and Farm Service Agency (FSA) recently announced that the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) is under a continuous sign-up and applications received by December 15, 2001, at USDA Service Centers, will be prioritized for 2002 funding. EQIP provides technical and financial assistance to eligible farmers and agricultural landowners to address soil, water and related natural resource concerns.

Approximately $1.5 million will be provided for environmental improvement in South Carolina through priority areas and a statewide conservation concern. EQIP provides cost-sharing and incentive payments for certain conservation practices such as filter strips, nutrient management, waste management systems, waste utilization, grassed waterways, prescribed grazing, vegetative buffers, and wildlife habitat enhancement. Total cost-share and incentive payments are limited annually to $10,000 per person and $50,000 for the life of the contract, which can span five to 10 years. NRCS and conservation districts will ensure that county educational plans are developed in an effort to reach and inform all producers, especially underrepresented landowners.

Market Bulletin Rules & Regulations

1. Only ads pertaining to agricultural products and products and items used in actual growth, harvesting, and disposal of such agricultural products are published.
2. Only one ad per family per category is allowed.
3. A maximum of 4 ads per person per issue are allowed.
4. A complete name and address including a Zip Code is required for each ad submitted. A phone number is optional, but if it is included it must also have the Area Code.
5. Ads will be published only one time. To be repeated in another issue, ads must be resubmitted before each issue's deadline with all the needed information. The deadline date can be found in the top right hand corner of the front page under the Market Bulletin header.
6. "For Sale" ads must include a price.
7. No sealed bids or legal notices for sale will be printed. Notices will not be published for consignment sales.
8. Each ad is limited to 25 words plus name and address.
9. No commercial ads are accepted from dealers, merchants or commercial establishments, including real estate agents, unless the property in the ad is personally owned. Persons who have business licenses to sell agricultural and non-agricultural items are not eligible to advertise. U.S. Post Office regulations prohibit the publication of commercial ads because of periodical postage privileges.
10. Only ads with South Carolina addresses are accepted. No out-of-state ads are permitted.
11. The Market Bulletin accepts no responsibility for ads appearing in the publication. Ads are received in good faith. We appreciate being notified of evidence of bad faith on the part of any advertiser.
12. The Market Bulletin reserves the right to edit and/or investigate any and all ads or notice submitted for publication.
13. Special Rules & Regulations for specific categories:

Dogs Category

Only dogs-for-sale notices are published. This category is a last priority and dog advertisements are only to be published as space permits.

Dogs-for-sale ads must include copies of rabies vaccination certificates for all dogs 3 months old or older. Ads for dogs under 3 months of age must be accompanied by the date of birth.

Equine Category

Horse, mule and donkey ads must include a photocopy of a negative Coggins test dated within one year.

Farm Equipment Category

Farm equipment offered for sale ads must include a statement such as: "This machinery/equipment has been or will be used by me in an agricultural endeavor and is not offered for sale by an equipment dealer or commercial enterprise." No trucks or autos.

Farm Labor Category

Notices are accepted for agricultural work only and not for housework, nursing or companionship needs.

Farm Land Category

Farm land listed must be for at least 5 acres under cultivation or grazing. Farmland offered for sale ads must include a statement such as: "This is my personal property."

Plants & Flowers or Garden Plants Categories

Each ad for plants and flowers or garden plants must be accompanied by a Plant Industry Certification Number.

Seeds Category

All seed advertisements must be accompanied by a copy of a current Seed Lab Test.
