jacki, did you see this? south carolina passes a bill that makes obamacare a crime. >> i'm so glad they're working on stuff that matters. >> stephanie: nikki haley says it is a way for the state to do the federal government's bidding and pay subsidies for things we can't afford. >> i'm not sure how that falls to the states. there is truly taxpayer money going to subsidies of private insurance companies and that's not a great thing but it is not state money. and the federal government is going to help out with medicaid expansion which will help to provide health insurance to people who live in poverty so i'm not seeing the state burden at this point.
