

Account: South Carolina State Parks

Content type: Facebook Page - Timeline posts

Record ID: 20170709South-Carolina-State-ParksTimeline-posts52748_10155508762443166

South Carolina State Parks

at 12:30:20 on 7/09/2017 UTC · 🌐

During a recent archeological dig at Hampton Plantation, archeologists found part of a sword, called the hilt. The hilt, is the part of the sword that shields the hand from injury if the hand slipped off the sword handle. The artifact pictured below dates back to the early 1700's and has been underground at Hampton Plantation State Historic Site for over 300 years. Pretty cool stuff!
www.southcarolinaparks.com/hampton

Cindy Hooker Grooms Charlie McElyea

at 12:33:55 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Charlie McElyea Thats amazing!! I don't have that type of luck!! Lol

at 12:39:54 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Will Collicott Shannon Keenan Howard Johnny Howard Allison Tinney

at 12:40:06 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Wanda Lance Larry Wilson look at this!

at 12:46:25 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Dawn Effertz Cereola I thought it was a bottle opener 🤔

at 12:49:18 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Brian Osborne That is a guard. The guard,grip, and pommel make up I hilt.

at 13:12:22 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Kerri Austin Moore Danielle Thomas I thought this might interest you.

at 13:34:00 on 7/09/2017 UTC

David Moore Didn't George Washington stay at that plantation Robert E. Bohrn?

at 14:21:38 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Larry Wilson Cool

at 14:26:38 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Kaila Parmalee Nathan G Brown

at 14:41:42 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Rachel Wood Hequembourg Gregory McKee check it out!!

at 14:44:26 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Nichole Brink-Dingler Avery Poulas

at 15:59:18 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Danielle Thomas This is cool. Interesting fact I didn't know. Thanks for sharing with me 😊

at 16:38:36 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Shannon Keenan Howard That's cool!

at 16:51:07 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Jane Cunningham Derrick Yes he did stay at the plantation.

at 17:34:52 on 7/09/2017 UTC

David Moore Simon Mims

at 17:43:24 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Walter Wrixon If you have never been to Hampton Plantation you should try and make it one day. Beautiful area!

at 18:40:04 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Frederic Gleach Without searching but just from appearance, I'd say that was the guard from a small-sword, and it looks like there might've been a knuckle-bow. A good edged-weapons person -- or a bit of research -- would likely yield a much more specific ID.

at 19:22:05 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Kathleen Spring Lisa Burton we visited here

at 19:34:47 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Alison Worth Harrison Chris Harrison check it out!

at 21:05:03 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Emily McManus Tschoche Tara Dietrich

at 21:52:55 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Beau Robbins He only took lunch there... didn't stay overnight.

at 23:18:35 on 7/09/2017 UTC

Maggie Ruth Cochrane They will melt it down 😞

at 0:24:40 on 7/10/2017 UTC

Karla Koenig Stephen Shokes thought you might like to see this.

at 13:03:18 on 7/10/2017 UTC

Stephen Shokes Saw it yesterday. Thanks

at 22:38:02 on 7/10/2017 UTC

Nicole Kilgore Pinson No, an Archaeologist would not do that. They would not melt it down.

at 22:38:40 on 7/10/2017 UTC

Randall Shirey Kew!!! Love the Hampton Plantation!

at 14:10:41 on 7/11/2017 UTC

Cathy Turner Rafael Eledge

at 22:19:50 on 7/14/2017 UTC