

SC Christmas Tree Association Summer Meeting Planned

The South Carolina Christmas Tree Association will hold their summer meeting June 21-22, 2002 at Harmon Tree Farm, Gilbert SC. The meeting will be held from 6 pm - 9 pm on Friday and from 8 am - 3:30 pm on Saturday.

Tour one of the most innovative and progressive Christmas tree farms in the Southeast. Harmon's Tree Farm not only utilizes the latest in equipment and technology, but is also widely known for it's popular theme tours (Halloween, Christmas, Easter, Agriculture). Learn how they do it. Also see their over 5,000 square foot barn, adorned with antiques, that they rent for various functions. Take a tractor "train" ride tour of their farm. Get a behind the scenes tour of their vast Christmas House. For a sneak preview, check out their website, www.harmontreefarm.com.

The Lexington County Extension Service will also be prominent at this meeting. Sam Cheatham and Powell Smith, Lexington County Extension Agents, will discuss the latest news in pesticides, fire ant control, sprayer calibration, and more. Their presentations will earn attendees pesticide recertification points. There will also be a talk on labor legalities and regulations as well as exciting news on a statewide marketing campaign geared to direct consumers to our webpage, scchristmastrees.org. A Friday night dinner and Saturday lunch will be available.

Pre-registration is $40 by June 14 for members and $50 thereafter for members and non-members. For further information contact Mike McCartha at 803-892-3662.

Carolina Classic Boer Goat Association Show Scheduled

The South Carolina Chapter of the International Boer Goat Association (SC IBGA) has scheduled their first annual Carolina Classic Boer Goat Show at the Newberry Fairgrounds on Saturday, June 22, 2002 in Newberry, SC.

The Boer goat was imported into the United States in the early 1990s. The breed was developed to provide a higher quality carcass and is a highly sought after food source for our fast growing ethnic population. A mature buck can achieve a weight of 300 pounds. Mature does can reach 200 pounds.

The statewide show will be nationally sanctioned and open to entrants from the US and Canada. All Boer Goat registries including the American Boer Goat Association, International Boer Goat Association and the Canadian Boer Goat Association will be accepted. Deadline for entering goats in the show is June 10, 2002.

The SC IBGA, a non-profit organization, invites potential sponsors to help fund facilities and pens rental, bedding for the pens, judges fees and expenses, trophies, ribbons, cash awards, and printing expenses. Sponsorships include: Platinum - $500; Gold - $250; Silver - $100; and Bronze - all other donations.

For more information or to become a sponsor contact: Perry Hamm, SC IBGARepresentative, at 803-276-1661.

LEGAL NOTICE ON REFERENDUM FOR CONTINUANCE OF THE MARKETING ORDER FOR SOUTH CAROLINA TOBACCO

According to the rules governing continuance of marketing orders under provisions of the Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act, notice is given that the Agriculture Commission of South Carolina will conduct a referendum by mail among affected producers to determine continuance of the Tobacco Marketing Order during the period May 1-15, 2002.

"XV. CONTINUANCE: Prior to the completion of each five (5) calendar years from the effective date of their Order, the Commission shall resubmit this Order to a referendum of affected producers according to the requirements of initial assent pursuant to Section 14 of the Act. In the event that the required assent is not given by the affected producers, this Order shall be declared to be terminated."

Copies of the Tobacco Marketing Order may be obtained from D. Leslie Tindal, Commissioner of Agriculture and Secretary, the Agriculture Commission of South Carolina, P. O. Box 1 1280, Columbia, South Carolina, 29211.

Commissioner's Column

Eastern Produce Council Essential Market for South Carolina Produce

For the past 31 years, South Carolina has hosted the annual meeting of the Eastern Produce Council which represents the major wholesale and retail buying community in the greater New York, New Jersey, and Philadelphia areas. Throughout the years the event has proven to be a very successful effort in promoting the movement of the state's products to this large consumer population of 15 to 18 million people.

Last year, I invited my friend and fellow agriculture advocate to attend this event---Senator Bob Waldrep (District 3, Anderson Co.), Chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee. He was so impressed with the event last year that I invited him this year to lead our delegation from South Carolina to host the 31st consecutive Eastern Produce Council meeting. The event, organized by Wayne Mack, Director of Marketing, and Martin Eubanks, Senior Marketing Specialist, of the SC Department of Agriculture, was held on Tuesday, April 30, 2002, at the Crown Plaza in Secaucus, New Jersey.

People ask why we host this event. The answer is, like any other business, marketing is a major part of successful agricultural trade. Today, the competition is greater than ever in our history. South Carolina's fruit and vegetable marketers must compete with other states and other nations for markets. Peaches, watermelons, and tomatoes don't wait. They must be shipped when the window of opportunity is open. That is why our marketing staff has worked so diligently throughout the years to develop good working relationships with our markets in the northeast.

Consumers demand fresh, high quality food that tastes as good as it looks, and SC produce offers the best of both---good looks and great taste! SC Quality is recognized by consumers everywhere, and our growers can harvest today and get it to market tomorrow. That's fast! They can also grow fresh produce year round because of our mild climate and new technology. That's consistent! But, even though we have a consistent supply of fresh, quality produce, we must have a ready market for when the time is right.

South Carolina needs agribusiness partners like the members of the Eastern Produce Council to continue to be successful in the business of agriculture. That's why I highly advocate this partnership between the North and the South---South Carolina, that is.

About 100 growers, shippers, brokers, and fresh produce handlers attended this year's Eastern Produce Council meeting. Because of this event South Carolina has developed lasting relationships with buyers as well as an opportunity for networking with potential customers.

The South Carolina delegation included: peach grower and former Chairman of the Ag Commission of South Carolina Larry Yonce of Johnston; watermelon grower and President of the SC Watermelon Association Billy Jenkins of Jefferson; and vegetable grower and President of the newly formed SC Fruit, Vegetable, and Specialty Crop Association Chris Rawl of Lexington.

Senator Waldrep believes in what we are doing for our produce industry and says that this event is one of the best opportunities the state has to promote South Carolina grown fruits and vegetables in this major market of 15 to 18 million people. Senator Waldrep knows that agriculture in South Carolina is big business, and that the fruit and vegetable industry is a large part of that business. But, the loss of a market like the buyers in the Eastern Produce Council could strike a severe blow to the people in the communities served by the state's produce industry.

Senator Waldrep said, "As we have seen in other parts of the country and the world, when agriculture fails, the economies fail, too. I, for one, encourage the SC Department of Agriculture to continue this effort to keep farm families and their communities in business. In addition, I pledge my support and will continue to urge my fellow citizens and legislators to support this and other marketing efforts to keep agriculture strong and viable in the state."

Hosting the Eastern Produce Council meeting is an important part of the state’s produce marketing program, and it’s vital that we maintain the relationships with these buyers that we have established throughout the years. Some of the older buyers are retiring and many of the new buyers are now attending the event each year. So, it’s important that we maintain a marketing edge over the competition by developing these new working relationships just as we have in the past. Everyone who grows, ships, packs, and markets fruits and vegetables in South Carolina deeply appreciates the continued support of the consuming public and public officials.

And, it’s our partnership with buyers like the members of the Eastern Produce Council that keep our fruit and vegetable industry "growing" strong in South Carolina! Do your part to maintain a healthy diet and a healthy economy. Buy South Carolina Quality!

South Small Flock Certification Program

A Small Flock Certification Program will be held May 24 and May 25, 2002 at Clemson University. The program will begin on Friday, May 24th at 1:30 pm with NPIP certification classes, followed by a necropsy laboratory and disease and parasites of poultry.

On Saturday, the program is scheduled to begin at 8:30 am and end at 4 pm. Topics that day will include Nutrition, Biosecurity, Rodent Control, Farm Management Plan and Genetics.

Clemson University Extension Service and the SC Department of Agriculture have developed the Small Flock Certification Program, designed to bring small poultry flocks into compliance with the National Poultry Improvement Plan (NPIP). Since the commercial poultry industry in South Carolina is valued at $1.5 billion, preventing disease infestations between small and/or commercial flocks is essential. In addition, following the NPIP provides small flock owners with better quality poultry. The criteria for becoming certified in the program requires that each flock be NPIP Certified and the flock owner be a certified tester. NPIP workshops will be offered twice a year.

For more information, contact Dr. Michelle Hall, Clemson University Extension Service, at 864-656-4022 or email mahall@clemson.edu.

Hurricane Preparedness Seminar for Large Animal Owners

South Carolina Awareness and Rescue for Equines (S.C.A.R.E.) and Horry County Large Animal Rescue Team invite owners of large animals (cattle, horses, llamas, emus, etc.) to attend a FREE seminar in preparation for the upcoming hurricane season. The seminar will be held on June 22, 2002, from 9 am to 1 pm in the M.L. Brown County Building in Conway, SC.

The Hurricane Preparedness Seminar will assist large animal owners in preparation for floods, in developing an evacuation plan with and without the animals, in helping make decisions like when to leave with the animals and what routes are available. The seminar will provide answers to vaccination requirements, the appropriate forms for travel, proper identification, trailer safety, where to go and what equipment to have in an emergency kit for large animals.

For more information, call Phyllis Rodas at 843-423-7178 or Cindy Whitten at 843-215-6033 or visit S.C.A.R.E.’s web site at www.schoreserescue.org.
