Rob, Jeff

A state Senate bill introduced today would provide 10 years of free identity-theft protection to SC tax filers whose data was accessed in last year's DOR cyber attack. The bill also calls for creating a cabinet-level chief information security officer position responsible for overseeing cyber security for all state agencies.

Would like to know if the governor has any reaction to these proposals. I had hoped to see the governor during her media availability in Abbeville this afternoon but that plan got derailed by this story.

Thanks for your help.
