Laura is the new policy director (they might call her something else, but that's the gist of it) for the Department of Education. I haven't worked with her, but I'd start there. If you have trouble getting what you need, just let me know, and I can work other angles. Thanks.

I would have had her talk to J.W., since I think she basically wants to get data from SLICE. Who's a good contact now?

Hey Christian,
As a follow up to this morning's conversation, is there a specific contact at the Dept. of Education that you can connect me with to discuss the school readiness outcome and gaining access to student data?
