DAILY WASHINGTON NEWS

Trump campaigned as a disrupter, begins governing by chaos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald Trump campaigned as a disrupter. Now he's governing by chaos. Trump's temporary U.S. refugee program — the most consequential policy he's unveiled in his presidency's opening days — wreaked havoc at airports and sparked protests across the country.

Trump denies immigration restriction is 'a Muslim ban'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Donald Trump is vigorously defending his immigration restrictions, as protests throughout the country, saying "this is about terror and keeping our country safe."

Trump's justice pick to trigger intense pressure on Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Donald Trump nominates a Supreme Court justice, Senate Democrats will immediately face intense political pressure, with liberals demanding that Democrats block the choice and the conservative Majority Leader Mitch McConnell to blow up longstanding rules to secure confirmation.

This artist rendering provided by Airbus shows a vehicle in their flying car project, Vahana. Even before George Jetson kids with his flying car, people dreamed of soaring above traffic congestion. Inventors and entrepreneurs have tried to make the dream a reality, but that may be changing. Nearly a dozen companies around the globe, some of them in pockets like Airbus, are working to develop personal aircraft that let people hop over crowded roadways. (Airbus)
