On February 11-13, 2019, over 500 municipal finance professionals will convene in Austin to discuss how important developments over the past year will impact finances in the state of Texas in the new year.

Will stronger revenue performance lead to more infrastructure funding in the state? How can issuers meet the growing demand for first-rate infrastructure while maintaining Texas' coveted low-tax culture? At The Bond Buyer's Texas Public Finance Conference, state and local officials will discuss their plans for tackling the challenges associated with the continuing growth in the state's economy.

The conference agenda is taking shape and we're pleased to share with you the preliminary topics that will be broached at this year's event.
