The fiscal cliff bit's not so tough...it's the Higgs boson where things start to get complicated.

The afternoon of February 19th looks good at this point...want to pencil-in 1PM?

Every time I think I understand something, like the fiscal cliff or people's schedule, it changes. And this has.

Jerry will now be in Columbia on 2/19, which is neither State of the State, nor United Way Public Policy day, but is probably crazy busy with you and the folks upstairs. Do you have any time that afternoon? We'll come to your office.

Hi Tim,

Minor headache in that it took over 18 hours to drive back to Pennsylvania in the snowstorm, but other than that, the holidays went pretty well.

I'm glad to meet with you and Jerry on the 16th...did you have a particular time/location in mind? It's State of the State night and I think I'm actually talking to the United Way's Public Policy Day group at some point, too (you guys must have low standards). Mid/late morning or early afternoon are probably best on my end, if those windows work. Thanks.

Christian, Happy New Year! Hope your holiday season was bright and cheerful and that all grandparents and grandchildren were properly gifted.

I believe that I mentioned to you that I am on the Board of Consumers' Choice Health Plan, a new start-up co-op created made possible under the Affordable Care Act to promote competition in the market. Jerry Burgess, the CEO of CCHP, would love to meet with you and tell you about his vision for creative market disruption. He's going to be in town on 1/16. Any chance you've got 15 minutes that day to meet with him? I think that Adrian Grimes, the Marketing Director has also called Josh for an appointment--I will leave it to you as to which of you might be most appropriate, or who's in better shape calendar-wise!
