Updates on smart city progress around the globe

NEWS & TRENDS

Can you afford a security breach? If your city's cybersecurity efforts are lax, you'll want to check out a new IBM report that shows an average breach costs millions. Does cyberattack insurance make sense? A New York town that has been hacked is exploring that option. See what else cities are doing financially and technically to prepare for the worst. MORE >>

World's 25 most livable cities: Tokyo takes the top spot, according to a new ranking. While that may surprise some, here's another surprise -- only one U.S. city made the list and it's ultra-trendy (and much smaller) Portland, Oregon. Read what a life-long Portlander has to say about that. MORE >>

5 smart summer reads: How are the world's most visionary mayors transforming people's lives? What will our cities look like in 2060? What do industry thought leaders say about the evolving electric power industry? We've got a 5-click summer reading roundup for you at the site. MORE >>
