South Carolina State Parks

at 19:46:18 on 7/10/2020 UTC

Ranger Cathy from Paris Mountain has stopped by this afternoon with a turtle release! This turtle was injured when it was caught with a fish hook. Ranger Cathy took the turtle to be rehabilitated. It now has a clean bill of health and is back home at Paris Mountain State Park!

Stephen Schar Kaci Jackson May yes, in close proximity to others. We hiked the trails at Table Rock and Keeoway Tox this week and pulled our masks up to protect the others whenever we came near them.
, especially when they had children. Unfortunately, they were usually not as considerate.

Carol Podmore Thank you, Ranger Cathy for setting an example for others. Taking care of and rescuing our wildlife is an important lesson for us, as is wearing a simple mask during a pandemic.

Gretchen Kron Dust I love to be a part of so many different National Park social media accounts. It's so disheartening when good posts like this turn into a political debate or obnoxious comments.
Thank you for saving a turtle and releasing him back in the wild and allowing all of us to enjoy watching the process from the comfort of our homes.
