

New Mission, Founding Dean

George J. Petersen, Ph.D., founding dean, has vast experience in P12 and higher education, specifically with reaching out to high-needs areas to improve P12 education. This experience and commitment are critical to serving in this leadership role.

"With education being the gateway to good jobs and a better quality of life in South Carolina, quality teachers are the lynchpin tying together all of our efforts to vigorously compete in the global economy. I look forward to Dean Petersen leading the effort at the Moore School of Education to meet such a challenge," said Darla Moore, benefactor.

The Moore School of Education is committed to creating synergistic relationships among Clemson faculty, K-12 schools and institutions of higher education, and communities to improve P-22 education.

New Mission, New Leadership

We are a transformative leader in systemically improving education, beginning at birth. Our mission is to engage our students in high-quality applied research, professional learning, and immersive experiences. We prepare culturally competent scholar-practitioners who promote the growth, education, and development of all individuals, with emphasis on underperforming schools and underserved communities across the state and nation.
