South Carolina State Parks

at 20:00:01 on 12/22/2015 UTC · 🌐

Watch where you're standing! See that evergreen branch in the tree? Yep, that's American mistletoe. This mistletoe species is found all over the southern United States. Mistletoe is easy to spot in the winter once you know what the plant looks like – a small green bush growing from a leaf-bare tree limb. Mistletoe is a parasite on its host tree, stealing water and nutrients from the host with no known benefit to the host. Mistletoe is poisonous if consumed. Due to this, you can purchase replica mistletoe made of plastic or cloth to decorate with and you can always see some real mistletoe high above at a South Carolina State Park.
