Thanks for reaching out.

Unfortunately, the governor does not have one-on-one availability today, and I don't think she'll be available for that this week. As you can imagine, every station around the state has that same request, and if we sit down with y'all, we have to sit down with everyone.

In the absence of that flexibility in her schedule, the governor has a media availability today and one Friday, during which she'll take questions from reporters. Y'all will definitely be able to get sound there.

I'd rather set up a sit down one-on-one if possible, and we can do it another day if necessary. Sending a crew to Gaston for a mass media event just isn't feasible, and it wouldn't provide a suitable environment for the kind of interview we'd like to do.

Thanks,
Bryan

Hi Chaney,

Would Gov. Haley be available for a one-on-one interview today in Columbia to talk about her response last night and what she discussed on "Today" this morning?

We're an NBC affiliate, and we have a ton of viewers who saw her this morning and would love to hear more. I can have a reporter up there whenever she's available... and we wouldn't take up too much time.

Thanks,
