Subject: Threat Assessment and Stalking - Special Training Event in Vancouver, BC, Canada

Threat Assessment, Stalking and Cyber-Bullying - Assessment and Management Strategies

Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada: May 4-6, 2015

This training event has three different components that are reviewed. In the first two days - threat assessment, stalking and cyber bullying. Participants will learn strategies to help them identify, assess and manage individuals who may be escalating towards violence. This training provides participants with a better understanding of the nature of stalking, including motivations related to different types of stalkers and management strategies of stalking situations. Specific focus is given to cyber-bullying and cyber-stalking. The final day of the training will focus on case study review, analysis and discussion.

Trainer: Keith Dormond, MSW

Keith has over fifteen years of experience in violence assessment and management. He has worked as a social worker for four years and a police officer for over fifteen years. He has extensive training and experience in the assessment and management of workplace violence, school based violence, domestic violence, stalking and cyber-bullying. Keith holds a Master of Social Work degree from Carleton University and has commenced Doctorate studies in Education at the University of British Columbia. In addition to his work with CTRI, he is a Law Enforcement Officer and past President of the Canadian Association of Threat Assessment Professionals. As a facilitator, Keith draws on his experience in adult education, policing and violence risk assessment to provide practical, meaningful and participant focused presentations.

International training events are unique specialized workshops that happen only once or twice a year. Participants attend from around the world. Seating is limited so register early!
