The Senate worked hard to pass a roads bill that will commit significant money to fixing our roads without raising taxes. If the House does not concur with that bill, when they return next week, will not pass a roads bill this year. Call your House member and tell them to concur and fix our roads this year!

If the House does not concur with the Senate roads bill, it will die. Meaning South Carolinians will have to wait another year for action on roads. We must reform the DOT this year, so we can stop horse trading our roads, and start fixing the roads that need help most based on safety.

The roads bill passed in the SC Senate will fix our roads without raising taxes and will bring real reform to the DOT. If the House fails to concur with this version of the bill, it will die. That will only hurt the people of South Carolina who will have waited too long for their roads to be repaired.
