Ranked #18 in the nation by Brookings Institution, Charleston's regional economy is increasingly driven by advanced industries requiring a highly skilled, technical workforce. Join us for a panel discussion featuring key industry leaders who are impacting our region for generations to come. These executives lead global operations, care deeply about our region's competitiveness, and are focused on building a sustainable, world class, diverse workforce. As global catalysts for regional prosperity, they will share their collective insights on the power of alignment, leadership best practices, and their vision for our region's future.
