at 12:00:00 on 4/25/2017 UTC

Lily season is almost here as a few blooms have popped open over the weekend at Landsford Canal State Park. Check back each week for updates as we reach peak bloom of the world's largest population of Rocky Shoal Spider Lilies! You don't want to miss this:

Kathryn Braun Fenner Beth Eberhard and I saw a DNR boat over on the Timmerman Trail along the river on Friday, and it seemed to be electrocuting fish? Is that a thing, and why?

at 21:04:01 on 4/25/2017 UTC

Karen Swank Kustafik They were electro fishing the passage earlier this month. Stun and tag to follow journey.

at 21:06:08 on 4/25/2017 UTC

Karen Swank Kustafik Helps to show effectiveness, or lack of effectiveness, of the passage. And shows how far upstream some shad travel....

at 21:07:21 on 4/25/2017 UTC

Kathryn Braun Fenner Ah, thanks! There were several small ones that appeared to have been snapped up whilst stunned, gutted by a predator and dumped on the landing, which was unusual in my experience.

Sarah 'Sadie Röckins' Renay Does anyone know if we would we be able to stand up paddle board in this area? (It looks like people kayak so I'm guessing it's a good route, just wondering if anyone has SUP experience.) Thanks. 🌸❤️
