Dear Mr Tony Kester,

It was announced last September that the US Government would provide the federal agency, BARDA, which works on national preparedness for chemical and biological threats, funding of $96 million to explore new medical counter measures. Following on from this and in the run up to Superbugs & Superdrugs 2016, SMi Group have released an exclusive interview with the Project Manager of BARDA's Anti-Infective Programme, Dr. Christopher Houchens. Read it here

Hear more from BARDA at Superbugs & Superdrugs 2016 when the 18th annual conference returns to London next month. With a focus on extending portfolio partnerships to strengthen antibiotic pipelines, Christopher Houchens will provide case study insight on current partnerships and address BARDA's efforts to combat antibiotic resistant infections. Attendees will also learn about BARDA funding opportunities and future research collaborations. Click here for details

Will you be joining us next month for Superbugs & Superdrugs 2016? If you haven't made a
