Thanks Christian, very helpful. A couple of the issues shouldn't have been in there as they don't apply to this project, I was pulling from something else I am working on.

You know much more than me when it comes to this and I will trust your classifications in regards to who should handle.

If you and Josh can tackle these that would be awesome. Thanks.

Only about half of these even border on being in our universe (see notes below).

Depending on these all get assigned/routed, we might have ours done by the end of next week. It depends on what session looks like and whether or not Josh is released from the IT stuff he's been pulled into. I'm on the road for a portion of that window, too.
