Subject: South carolina Poultry Festival

I spoke with you earlier this week as per Ralph Kennedy about a visit with the governor and picture taking session in honor of the South Carolina Poultry Festival. Our festival in Batesburg Leesville will be celebrating it's 28th year. It will be May 8 through 10 with rides, parade, fireworks, crafts, food and all of the things that make this festival popular.

We normally visit the state house with gifts and fried chicken (from Shealy's in Leesville) to give our Lexington County delegation a week prior and haven't been successful in seeing the governor in several years. We hope that will change this year.

We would like to come either w/e April 25 or May 2nd. In a meeting Monday night we discussed it and found out that Tuesdays or Wednesdays are not good days. Hope we can work out a date that would serve everyone.

On another note - a letter inviting Gov. Haley to participate in the parade has been returned. Apparently not a good address. Could you let me know where to send it.

Thanks for all of your help,

Daphyne Ridgell - co-chair
