The governor delivers the address on Tuesday night, live after the president's SOTU.

Ahead of the governor's speech, the only availability she'll have is a Thursday news conference. In Columbia. We're pushing all media with interest to that one if they want sound/copy on the address.

Next week, Wednesday and Friday, we'll have some news events during which the governor will take questions from reporters. Your students are welcome to cover those and ask what they like. Full disclosure, and off the record for planning purposes only, the events will involve the state budget and upcoming legislative session.

We can add you, and anyone who is interested, to our press list, and y'all can get info about covering these events that way. Chaney, who is copied on this message, can help with that.

Let me know what we can do.
