Governor Nikki Haley
Office of the Governor
1205 Pendleton Street
Columbia, SC 29201

Dear Governor Haley,

Ms. Haley, I know that money and profitability are the primary drivers of our society; we lived in a capitalist society, however, all of the money in the world is really meaningless if the world is uninhabitable. I know that this grave concern of mine and many is out at a stretch so far into the future that corporations cannot realistically amortize their individual effects on this global situation; therefore it is up to high minded people such as yourself to impart regulations that guide these corporations toward sustainable practices. Please take a stand for me and for my children, so that their children's children may find themselves in a position of choice not force by circumstances beyond their powers.

(Below you can find the same rote message you have already seen a hundred times)
Peace and Love,

Charles

As your constituent, I'm deeply concerned about climate change and strongly support the Environmental Protection Agency's proposed limits on carbon pollution from coal-fired power plants.

The EPA's carbon pollution protections are an historic opportunity for our state to embrace a clean energy economy that can grow jobs and make us as a leader in the fight to protect future generations from climate chaos.

None of this crucial work will be possible without your leadership. That's why I'm calling on you to support the strongest possible limits on dangerous carbon pollution from power plants.

Reducing carbon pollution, building clean energy infrastructure and making our homes and businesses more energy efficient are all urgently needed if we hope to protect our state from the worst effects of climate change.

Now is the time to take action and lead.

Sincerely,

Mr. Charles Drayton
