A great way to get in touch with nature is to campout in the backcountry. The sights, sounds, and smells of the forest are richer when no modern distractions are present. Table Rock is having a series of mountain campouts to offer a wilderness experience in the mountains. Most campouts are a one night outing, requiring a 3-mile hike up the mountain. Off-trail camping is not allowed at any other time inside the park boundaries. A two-night backpacking trip is also scheduled in May involving the Palmetto and Foothills Trail.
