To Our Customers, Partners, and especially our fellow First Responders:

Today was a rough day to wake up and be a retired Law Enforcement Officer. Our thoughts are with all of you. I received a call first thing this morning from our company president asking my opinion on what we could do to attempt to help officers across the United States. I told him that what law enforcement needs right now is solidarity and support.

We at IRT want to reach out to all of you first responders and especially law enforcement to let you know that we are SOLIDLY behind you. We have your backs. If there is anything that we can do to help you stay safer in your mission, please let us know. If you need training, products, identification of resources (even if it's a competitor), networking, or if you just need to vent; please reach out and we will try to help in any way we can.

With our sincere admiration and encouragement,

Kacy Greene
