South Carolina State Parks

at 13:00:01 on 11/07/2015 UTC · 🌐

In recognition of and thanks to our veterans, all of South Carolina's state parks are offering free admission to veterans and their families on Veteran's Day, Wednesday, November 11, 2015. In addition, if anyone wears patriotic colors to one of our parks on that same day, they will receive one of our official state park guides to get them started on their Ultimate Outsider journey to all 47 SC State Parks. We salute our veterans and hope to see you all in a SC State Park!

Ken Felsher You better check and make sure they are open that day. 😊😊

Daniel Kantala Does this include confederate veterans, because they are also American vets?

Tom Cole You should allow free admission for disabled vets any day..

Dianne Geddings You are an idiot.

Daniel Kantala Dianne Geddings, how so? Let's hear your sorry excuse

Windi Bevill Foster I believe our state parks offer a discount to all veterans and military personnel every day. Their fees are pretty low anyway...even lower with the discount. They help pay for the upkeep and maintenance that make our state parks so great. Ty SC state parks for these daily discounts and special day freebies from someone who thoroughly enjoys and looks forward to every visit.

Sally Shank I'm sure if there are any living Confederate vets, they'll get in free, too!! THAT'S how you're an idiot!!
