Thank you. I realize I was working from our original ask -- and since then we've moved this event, it will now be on the Thursday in Cleveland. We'd love if she could be there for as little as 10 or 15 minutes around 1230 or 1pm. Any chance she's available on Thursday July 21?

Thank you and sorry for the switch.

Rob,

Thank you for thinking of the governor, unfortunately she does not have any availability on that date.

However, please feel free to reach out any time Rob or I can be a resource.

Thanks,

Chaney

Rob and Chaney,
checking in -- we'd love to have The Governor talk about her path to power at our event -- is she available in Cleveland that day?

thank you,
Rob

Rob and Chaney,

On behalf of the Atlantic, I'm writing to invite Governor Haley to be a featured speaker at a lunch forum dedicated to the topic of women & politics at the Republican convention in Cleveland. We're starting the conversation at 12:30 pm on Wednesday July 20th at the Blue Point Grille, 700 W St Clair Ave, Cleveland.

From the vantage point of the Republican Convention, we're going to dive into the why -- why aren't more women involved in politics, running for office, or getting involved? And why does having more women in the political process matter?

We are hoping she will be able to join us for a one-on-one keynote conversation drawing on lessons as Governor of South Carolina and as a leading woman in the Republican Party.

Increasing the participation of women in the political process is a non-partisan issue and our event will gather women speakers who have battled for the highest position in the land, those who are just starting out and veterans of political campaigns.

Running Start, She Should Run and All in Together are providing underwriter support for this program.

The program's audience of about 125 people will include convention delegates, members of the media, business leaders, academics, nonprofit groups and state and local administration staffers.

We hope it will work for the Governor to join us at this event, and many thanks for your consideration.

Thank you,
Rob
