

Former Beef Ambassador leads Tigers

Former Beef Ambassador Rita K. Bolt, from Anderson, was recently name president of the student body at Clemson University.

Rita was winner of the 1997 S.C. Ambassador contest and went on to win the national title and served as a spokesperson for the beef industry in South Carolina and across the nation. She is the first female ever elected president of the Clemson student body. A speech communications major, Rita grew up on a beef cattle farm and is the daughter of Ben and Gloria Bolt.

Anyone age 15-19 who is interested in becoming a beef ambassador can mail a request for an application to the S.C. Beef Board, P.O. Box 11280, Columbia, S.C. 29211. Contestants must present an illustration speech and answer questions from judges. The speeches can address issues and misconceptions in schools, workplaces and communities. Referendum for continuance of the marketing order for S.C. cotton

Pursuant to the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings for continuance of marketing orders under provisions of the "Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act" of 1968, and as amended, and Marketing Order No. 12 for South Carolina Cotton issued July 6, 1990, notice is hereby given that the Agriculture Commission of South Carolina will conduct a referendum by mail among affected producers for continuance of Marketing Order No. 12 for South Carolina Cotton during the period June 1-14, 2000, as required by Section XII. Continuance: Prior to the completion of each five (5) calendar years from the effective date of this Order, the Commission shall resubmit the Order to a referendum of affected producers according to the requirements of initial assent pursuant to the Act. In the event that the required assent is not given by the affected producers, this Order shall be declared to be terminated.

The Marketing Order provides a legal framework through which a Cotton Board could act on programs of advertising and sales promotion, research and market development and other matters to achieve more orderly marketing conditions and thereby tend to achieve the declared policy of the Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act. A South Carolina Cotton Board composed of seven producer members and one ex-officio member will administer the Order.

Copies of the Marketing Order may be obtained from D. Leslie Tindal, Secretary, the Agriculture Commission of South Carolina, P. O. Box 11280, Columbia, South Carolina, 29211.

All that spring brings

If you've visited one of our State Farmers Markets in the past few weeks, I'm sure you've seen that they are busier than ever. Spring is here and the markets are overflowing with fresh fruits and vegetables, as well as bedding plants, flowers and hanging baskets.

The S.C. Department of Agriculture has just wrapped up its last of four Plant and Flower Festivals, which were held at the Greenville, Florence and Columbia State Farmers Markets as well as at the Exchange Park in Ladson. As these festivals have become a tradition, they have also begun to symbolize the first wave of spring produce.

In early spring, most folks are thinking about bedding plants and flowers for their yards and gardens. You can see proof of that just by riding down any street or highway. Just imagine what spring would be like without that sudden spray of color. Without the yellows, pinks, purples and reds, it just wouldn't seem like spring at all. And, thousands of these yards and gardens are filled with plants and flowers that were bought at our festivals, because people have come to appreciate the sheer variety, volume and selection offered at each one. Besides that, there are hundreds of vendors on-hand at the festivals to answer any question amateur or seasoned gardeners may have.

When purchasing their flowers each year, buyers can't help but notice the other side to our farmers markets, where fresh strawberries, seed potatoes, onions and other early spring items are for sale. And that's just the beginning. As South Carolina produce is harvested throughout the spring and summer—and the fall and winter—you can easily find whatever you are looking for at our farmers markets. Pretty soon, South Carolina peaches, watermelons, cantaloupes, cucumbers, tomatoes, and many other fresh products will be available, in addition to plants and flowers.

The Greenville State Farmers Market is located at 1354 Rutherford Rd., the Pee Dee State Farmers Market is located at 2513 W. Lucas St., near I-20, in Florence, and the Columbia State Farmers Market is located on Bluff Road, across from Williams-Brice Stadium.

Of course, our Certified Roadside Markets are located in every county. With more than 100 roadside markets certified by the SCDA, there is sure to be one close to you. Just look for our Certified Roadside Market emblem before you shop. That emblem assures you that you will find fresh, quality produce at the market—during any season in which the market is open.

Each year when spring arrives I am so pleased that I live in a region where everything just seems to come alive. On every road I travel, I can see corn sprouting and hay fields flourishing. Without agriculture, spring wouldn't seem nearly as spectacular. When I hear or read statistical reports about how the amount of farmland in the state is rapidly shrinking, I wonder if we fully realize what we will be missing if the trend continues. Agriculture brings us more than food and floriculture; it emphasizes to us when spring is here; it brings us spring as we know it. What a wonderful place to live—South Carolina—with four distinct seasons!
