Columbia, S.C. -- The Columbia Museum of Art presents a lecture and demonstration by Caitlin Freeman, self-taught baker and resident pastry chef for Blue Bottle Coffee in San Francisco, on Friday, January 23, at 6:30 p.m. Freeman explains how she came to create delicious desserts that inspire the palate and the imagination and shows how to make these impressive pastries in the kitchen.

"When I look at art, I see visions of cake, buttercream, ganache, and ice cream," says Freeman. "I look forward to showing you some of my creations, and encouraging you to start seeing art in a slightly sweeter way."

A former owner of the San Francisco cake and sweets shop Miette, Freeman made a name for herself creating simple and lovely cakes and cupcakes using local and organic ingredients. Inspired to bake by the confectionary paintings of California painter Wayne Thiebaud, she saw her chance to re-create those very cakes when Blue Bottle opened a café in the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art. Four years and many art-inspired desserts later, she wrote the book, Modern Art Desserts, to chronicle the desserts, inspiration, and adventures that happened when combining art and cake.

Happy hour at 6:00 p.m. Lecture at 6:30 p.m. followed by cake demonstration and tasting. $15 / $12 for members / $5 for students. Admission includes cake!
