Commissioner's Column

A month for the heart

February is a month for matters of the heart and for the heart. On Feb. 14, we celebrate St. Valentine's Day, when we traditionally have lots of chocolates and high-calorie dinners. But, February is also American Heart Month, and many people are searching for ways to make their diets a little healthier (and still have a few chocolates).

It seems as if the 90s was the "Health Decade." But many people who wanted to eat healthier just found it to be a confusing decade, as health officials would claim some foods could lead to heart disease, then say those same foods could reduce the risk for heart disease—all within a matter of months! Fortunately, while health-related research continues, the myths about what to eat have somewhat stabilized, and it's no longer such a confusing task to eat well and to eat for wellness. In fact, we can simply look at South Carolina's own commodities to keep us healthy.

As recently as October of last year, the Food and Drug Administration gave the go-ahead to allow food labels that highlight the health benefits of soybeans on certain soy products. The labels will note the link between eating soy protein and a reduced risk of heart disease. This was a major victory for South Carolina's soybean industry. We've known for some time that eating soy products results in many health benefits, and now our food labels can state it!

Studies also show that South Carolina's peanuts are good for your heart. Peanuts and peanut butter are naturally cholesterol free, and contain mostly mono- and polyunsaturated fats, which have been shown to lower LDL-cholesterol levels in the blood. In fact, according to the American Peanut Council, people who frequently eat peanuts may have a reduced risk of heart attack. Because of this, peanuts (and legumes) should be eaten four-to-five times per week as a part of a healthy, balanced diet.

Peanuts are also good for people who wish to lose weight. Studies show that low-fat diets are not necessarily the best way to lose weight. What people must notice is the type of fats they are ingesting. Eating monounsaturated fats can actually cut the risk of heart disease—by 20-25 percent. It's foods that are high in saturated fats that are not as healthy and cause weight gain. Researchers at Penn State have shown that people can lose weight on a higher fat diet as effectively as those on a low fat diet—as long as they are "good" fats. Peanut butter, peanuts and mixed nuts all contain "good fats."

Peanuts, of course, aren't the only source of these "good fats." Quality South Carolina beef and pork, if prepared properly, can also be a part of a heart-healthy diet. The American Heart Association tells us that we should properly balance the types of fats we eat, including saturated fats (in moderate amounts). During the last decade, consumers demanded meats lower in saturated fat, and the meat industry responded with leaner cuts of beef and pork. Leaner animals are now being produced and retail meat is better trimmed than it was in the 1970s and 80s—meats now have 27-to-50 percent less trimmable fat than before. Poultry has also become healthier. That's because consumers realize that trimming poultry fat and removing the skin from poultry greatly reduces its fat content.

Healthy living isn't synonymous with giving up the foods we love. The key is a balanced diet and exercise. We simply need to pay attention to how lean our cuts of meat are and how we prepare our foods. We can also improve our health by eating soy products, peanuts, legumes, and fruits and vegetables. So perhaps this year, Valentine's Day dinner can be both from the heart and for the heart!

Beekeepers hold spring meeting

This spring's S.C. Beekeepers Association meeting will feature legislative, research and economic updates as well as information on how to keep hives healthy.

The meeting, set for Saturday, March 4, will be held at the Farm Bureau Building at 724 Knox Abbott Drive in Cayce. Registration will begin at 8 a.m., and the program will begin at 8:45. The cost is $2 per person and $3 per family.

As this spring's lead-off speaker, S.C. Representative Bill Riser from West Columbia will give a legislative update. Other guest speakers include Steve Taber, who will speak on a Small Hive Beetle research project, Fred Rossman, who will speak on "Economics of Honey Sales, Kurt Herbst with a speech about foul brood prevention, Cliff Ward who will give a report on the S.C. State Fair. Diane Biering will give a presentation on "Activities around Bee City, and Fred Singleton will give a regulatory update and more.

Anyone interested is invited to attend the meeting. For more information, call Mike Hood, executive secretary of SCBA at (864) 656-0346.

New S.C. Watermelon Queen named

Misty Ann James
2000 S.C. Watermelon Queen

At their Jan. 22-23 conference, the S.C. Watermelon Growers Association chose their new watermelon queen for the year 2000 and wished the outgoing S.C. watermelon queen good luck in the National Watermelon Queen pageant.

Misty Ann James from Pelzer captured the title and the $1,500 scholarship that goes with it, as well as other prizes. She was chosen during the Association's annual meeting, which was held at the Columbia Ramada Plaza Hotel.

James is a student at Greenville Technical College and the 18-year-old daughter of Rick and Diane James. Once she completes two years of study at Greenville Tech, James plans to transfer to the University of South Carolina and major in criminal justice.

As the new queen, James has a busy year ahead. She will travel around the state promoting S.C. watermelons and participating in various agricultural events.

Outgoing queen Janisyn Grant, 21, still has one more duty. This month, she'll compete in the National Watermelon Queen pageant in Los Angeles. She is a junior at Presbyterian College in Clinton.

For more information regarding the S.C. Watermelon Queen Pageant, call Adadra Williams at (843) 797-7335.

Tri-State Dairy Convention to be held in Charleston

The 7th Annual Tri-State Dairy Convention will be held March 16-19, at the Westin Francis Marion in Charleston.

The meeting, which will begin at noon on Thursday and end at noon on Sunday, will include educational programs featuring Patrick Grady's "Preparing for and Creating Futures" and John Delves' "Customer Service Essentials." Other activities include a Welcome Reception followed by the Carolina/Virginia Dairy Products Association (CVDPA) 25-ers Club Dinner on Thursday evening, a reception on Friday evening, and the Presidents' Reception and Awards Banquet on Saturday evening. The Tri State Dairy Convention will also include association meetings for the CVDPA, Virginia Dairy Foods Research meeting, the Mid-Atlantic Dairy Food Boosters Annual Business meeting, West Virginia Dairy Products Association meeting and the SC Dairy Association Board of Directors meeting.

The four-day event will also include an annual golf tournament at The Links at Stono Ferry and a spouse program which includes a chef demonstration and brunch and a carriage tour of Historic Charleston. Also, to benefit the association's scholarship programs, a reverse raffle will be held during the convention.

The early bird registration and hotel reservation deadline is February 15. Since the convention spans the St. Patrick's Day weekend, meeting planners urge the participants make plans early. For hotel reservations at the Westin Francis Marion, call (843) 722-0600 or (800) 433-3733. For more information, call (919) 382-0333.

Stir-Fry Pork and Vegetables

Ingredients: 2 tablespoons soybean oil, 1/2 cup vertically sliced onions, 2 cups Chinese pea pods, 1 cup sweet red bell pepper, cubed, 6oz. cooked pork cut in 2-inch strips, 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, 1 teaspoon minced fresh ginger root, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, pepper to taste

Directions: heat oil in large non-stick skillet or wok over medium-high heat about 1 minute or until hot. Add onions and stir-fry about 5 minutes or until vegetables are crisp-tender and pork is thoroughly heated. Makes 4 servings.
