These are the last two items for the group tonight. First, there's a one-pager that lays out some arguments for putting procurement in the Department of Administration...and also knocks down some of the phony counter-arguments.

The second document speaks specifically to the NASPO figures that MMO referenced during the Finance Subcommittee meeting a couple of weeks ago. We've had questions from a few folks about their numbers and a perceived conflict with what we've been telling folks about NASCA's numbers. In this second attachment, I explain that there actually isn't any tension between the NASCA and NASPO reports...and then why the NASCA numbers are the ones that matter.

Thanks.
