Strengthening and stabilizing the Medicaid home care workforce

The Center for Medicaid and CHIP Services has released an informational bulletin with steps for states, providers, and others to strengthen the home care workforce. The bulletin states that a stable workforce is critical to remedying a longstanding imbalance between institutional and home and community-based services.

Thanks and farewell to Kathy Greenlee

Last month, Kathy Greenlee stepped down as head of the U.S. Administration for Community Living after seven years. Working with her, we've helped more than 3 million people enroll in benefits, expanded falls and chronic disease self-management programs to more than 500,000 people, and increased awareness and protections for elder justice. We thank Greenlee for her passion and dedication!
