Spectators attending the 47th annual RBC Heritage Presented by Boeing on Friday, April 17, will experience a thrill when a Boeing 787 Dreamliner flies over the 18th hole at 12 p.m., pending final flight certificates and clear weather. South Carolina's only PGA TOUR event will be held April 13-19, 2015, at the Harbour Town Golf Links on Hilton Head Island, S.C.

"The April 17 flyover at the RBC Heritage Presented by Boeing will provide spectators with the unique opportunity to see a Boeing South Carolina-built 787 Dreamliner up close and personal," said Jack Jones, retiring Boeing South Carolina vice president and general manager. "Boeing is committed to giving back to the communities where our teammates live and work. We are proud to partner with The Heritage for the fourth year and assist South Carolina charities and non-profit organizations."

"I am looking forward to seeing a Boeing 787 that was built right here in South Carolina fly over Harbour Town and the Calibogue Sound," said RBC Heritage Tournament Director Steve Wilmot. "We are proud of our relationship with Boeing and are excited to give our fans a little something extra special."
