WITHOUT A PLAN, YOU HAVE A PROBLEM.

The threat of Zika calls for a different mosquito control program.

Public communication with education is the first solution to managing public concerns about mosquito control this season. The species that vector Zika, Aedes aegypti and Aedes albopictus, aren't present in all areas of the U.S. And to date, only travel-related cases have been reported.

We have created a free Zika Support Portal for municipalities with free press release templates, downloadable infographic and informational resident handouts, media b-roll videos and photos, plus links to the latest on Zika at <https://www.clarke.com/fight-zika-together>.

What is the best mosquito control program approach? We think it is one of common sense and making the right product choices. Clarke offers six Natular® larvicide formulations for optimal habitat fit. Five are OMRI listed for use in and around organic gardens and farms.

When it comes to adulticides, nothing fights container breeding species better than Duet®, a unique product that gets resting day-biting mosquitoes up and flying for more control of the natural population.
