TIDBIT TUESDAY! Tonight, join us as Ranger John & C.J. from Charles Towne Landing show us how they are constructing an earthfast house -- which means "posts in the ground". These houses were temporary dwellings that would've been found places like the settlement at Charles Towne Landing. Tune in at 8:00 p.m. to learn a little about history and these dwellings!

Building an Earthfast House - Part 1

Carrie Austin Eheart No sound.

Cran Ohlandt All of the posts, beams and rafters are red, white, and water oak. We'll be using some pine and other softer woods during later phases of construction

Sarah Collins I'm wondering when someone will get back to me about my terrible stay at Lake Hartwell State Park where people were squatting in the woods behind our campsite and no one did anything? South Carolina State Parks can you figure that out?

Sarah Collins Ben Thweatt oh that's funny that people were literally squatting in the woods behind us while we paid to camp? I've spoken to the park who has confirmed that they were indeed squatting as no campsite exists there...I surely hope you aren't involved with the Park system at all...
