Dear Governor Haley,

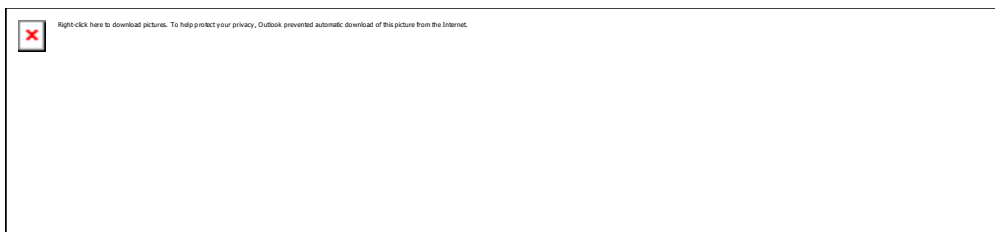

I appreciate the correspondence. But after that ploy in which you engaged in the aftermath of the mass murder of those unfortunates in their church in Charleston last year, I really have no interest in your opinion about the credentials of any one of the Republican candidates for president. Your illogical sophistry in blaming the Confederate Battle Flag for somehow being responsible for the behavior of a patently sick, and quite possibly evil, young man in Dylan Roof, was as clever as it was contemptible. Had your public mental health care system functioned as it should, this young man, and the people whom he apparently murdered, might have been saved. But instead of discussing the real issue, you quite skillfully convinced an intimidated legislature that voting to remove the Confederate Battle Flag from fluttering over a cemetery (where it rightfully belonged) was by some irrational line of thought equivalent to demonstrating solicitude for the victims of Mr. Roof's actions.

Your behavior earned the disdain of a number of thoughtful and reflective individuals.

Fellow Conservative,

Wednesday night, I announced my endorsement of Marco Rubio for President.

I did not make this decision lightly or quickly. I've looked at all of the candidates running for President: their records, their experience, and their plans for the future, and I'm saying this with certainty: Marco Rubio is the leader we need in the White House.

Marco Rubio will stand up for not only the citizens of South Carolina but every American. He will fight to protect the lives of the unborn, cut taxes for working Americans, and keep us safe.

Fellow Conservative, we are all in this race together. Our nation's future is on the line in this election and we need a leader with a conservative vision for how to make the future bright again.

Marco Rubio has that vision, but he needs our help to win. He is in a heated election that is only going to get tougher -- that's why our support today is so critical.

Your contribution, no matter the size, will go immediately towards Marco's final and critical get-out-the-vote efforts here in South Carolina.

As a Governor, I know how tough it can be to fight for conservative reforms -- but I also know our country can't thrive without them. Marco has shown his ability to fight for important reforms in the Senate, too, like finally bringing some degree of accountability to the VA.

As a mother, I agree with Marco that the family is the most important institution in our society. We need our next President to be one who values families and creates opportunities for them to grow rather than burdening them with unfair taxes. Marco has been a stalwart fighter for families and will keep up that fight as President.

I also want our next President to be one who values all Americans, and brings our conservative message to them, and I know South Carolinians do too. I know no better leader to do that than Marco Rubio.

Fellow Conservative, we cannot afford to waste another moment -- our country deserves and desperately needs Marco Rubio as our next President.

Will you join me in endorsing him today?

Sincerely,

Nikki Haley
Governor of South Carolina
