

From: Symmes, Brian <BrianSymmes@gov.sc.gov>

To:

Date: 8/20/2014 9:41:45 AM

Subject: SC Front Pages – Wednesday, August 20, 2014

SC Front Pages – Wednesday, August 20, 2014

LIFESTYLE, 1D

SWEET TALK

Pastry chefs share their secrets

METRO, 3A

Incentives sought to get more teachers

The Greenville News

A GANNETT COMPANY

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 2014
GREENVILLEONLINE.COM

USA TODAY IRAQIS FEAR DEFEAT WITHOUT MORE US HELP PAGE 1B

FINAL EDITION

FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

A CLEAN SLATE

MYKAL MCELLOWNEY/STAFF

McKella Hansen, 5, who started the day off overflowing with energy and excitement, turns serious as she takes her seat in class for the first time at Bell's Crossing Elementary. "This just got real," said her mom, Shannon, holding back tears. As her parents left the classroom, McKella shed a tear but was officially a "big girl in big-girl school."

Tears flow, a few buses slow

By Ron Barnett
Staff writer
rbarnett@greenvillenews.com

Eleven buses broke down, six of them for special needs students, and 15 were late for school, as more than 71,000 students in Greenville County started the new year Tuesday.

The 20-year-old air-conditioner at Hughes Middle School in Greenville conked out Monday and still wasn't working early Tuesday morning, but it had been temporarily fixed before temperatures began rising, Superintendent Burke Royster said.

The district plans to replace

See FIRST DAY, Page 4A

Mann students try new program

By Eric Connor
Staff Writer
econnor@greenvillenews.com

The newly minted laptops rested on pods of desks in the empty classroom, their screens dark but upright, awaiting a group of freshmen who will pioneer a new way of learning.

The J.L. Mann freshmen who will use them were across the hall, standing in circles, discussing the structure of the rules they will impose on themselves as part of program for learning that's brand-new to the Upstate.

They had hit a wall before lunchtime. They were tasked with acting out a team-building

See MANN, Page 4A

Zoo waiting expectantly for baby giraffe's arrival

Staff, public keep eye on webcam for signs

By Amy Clarke Burns
Staff writer aburns@greenvilleonline.com

Ask any woman who's had a during her 15-month-long pregnancy, 140 pounds of that in the last six months. She will lose about 120 pounds any day now when she gives birth to her second calf.

Dr. Heather Miller, veterinarian and deputy director for animal health at the zoo, said

"We're in that window right now," she said.

Online viewers have been watching EarthCam's live streaming of Greenville Zoo's giraffe barn and paddock with bated breath, hoping to catch sight of the birth. The expected calf's sibling, Kiko, had a live

The Post and Courier

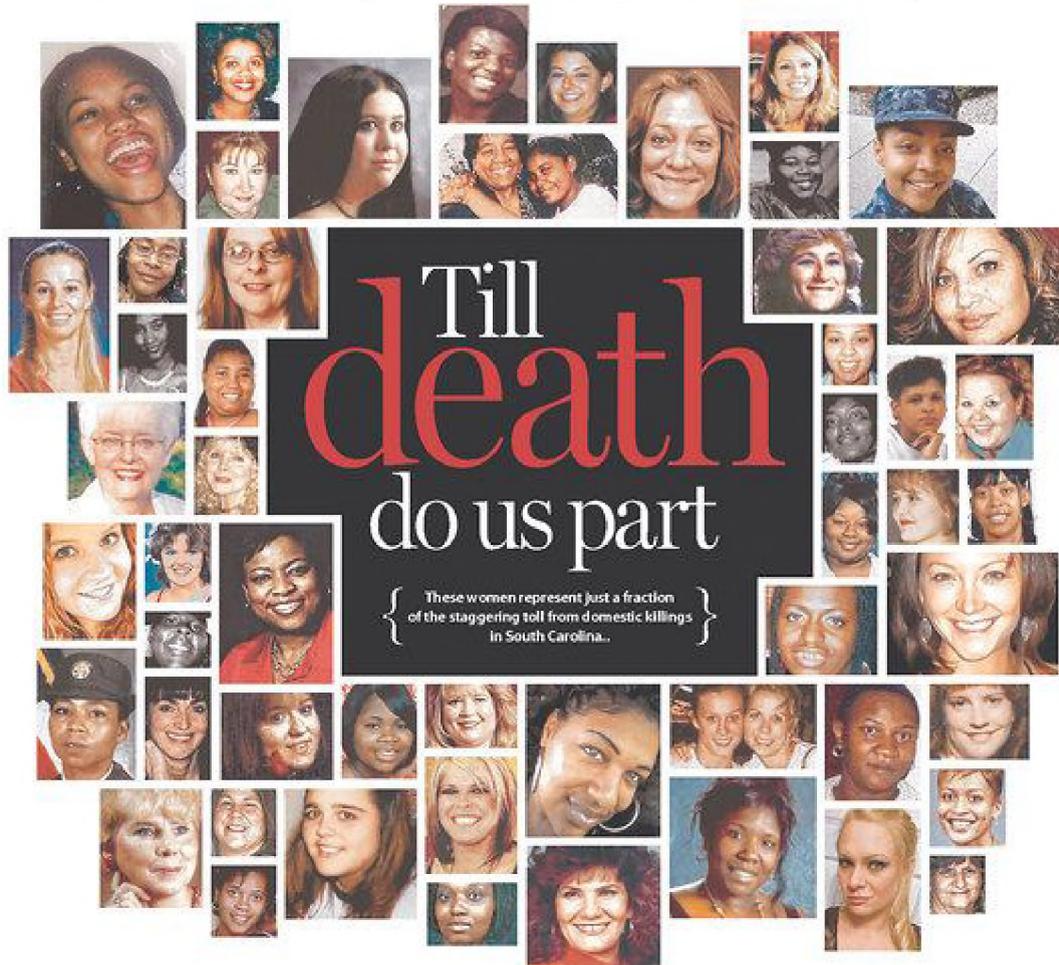

THE SOUTH'S OLDEST DAILY NEWSPAPER • FOUNDED 1803

WEDNESDAY, August 20, 2014

POSTANDCOURIER.COM

Charleston, North Charleston, S.C. ★ ★ $1.00

The outlook for domestic violence victims is grim in a male-dominated state where lawmakers resist change, punishment is light and abusers go free again and again.

S.C. was No. 1 this past year for the rate of women killed by men, with a toll more than double the U.S. rate

Inside

How we did it: A look at the research and reporting of this series. A6

About this project: The partners who helped us with this special report. A6

Faces of domestic violence: Stories from witnesses, survivors of abuse. A7

BY DOUG PARDUE, GLENN SMITH, JENNIFER BERRY HAWES and NATALIE CAULIA HAUFF
The Post and Courier

More than 300 women were shot, stabbed, strangled, beaten, bludgeoned or burned to death over the past decade by men in South Carolina, dying at a rate of one every 12 days while the state does little to stem the carnage from domestic abuse.

More than three times as many women have died here at the hands of current or former lovers than the number of Palmetto State soldiers killed in the Iraq and Afghanistan wars combined.

It's a staggering toll that for more than 15 years has placed South Carolina among the top 10 states nationally in the rate of women killed by men. The state topped the list on three occasions, including this past year, when it posted a murder rate for women that was more than double the national rate.

Awash in guns, saddled with ineffective laws and lacking enough shelters for the battered, South Carolina is a state where the deck is stacked against women trapped in the cycle of abuse, a Post and Courier investigation has found.

Couple this with deep-rooted beliefs about the sanctity of marriage and the place of women in the home, and the vows "till death do us part" take on a sinister tone.

Please see VIOLENCE, Page A6

Till death do us part

A 5-DAY SERIES

TODAY: South Carolina's top officials and lawmakers express shock and concern over the state's rank as the most deadly in the nation for women, yet little is being done to stem the death toll that is more than double the national rate.

THURSDAY: State lawmakers had an opportunity during the last legislative session to tackle the problem, yet 12 bills to do something died.

FRIDAY: Some of the deep-seated beliefs of South Carolinians, including religion and tradition, foster the state's No. 1 status in the rate of women killed by men in domestic violence.

SATURDAY: Numerous public and private organizations — from police and courts to women's shelters and religious groups — deal with domestic violence across South Carolina, yet effective coordination and cooperation remains almost non-existent.

SUNDAY: Possible solutions to help reduce the violence and the death toll.

For a special multimedia presentation, go to postandcourier.com/TillDeath

Chance of storms
High 97 Low 74.
Complete 3-day
forecast B12

Bridg... E11
Reviews... B2
Crafts... I1
Comics... D10, 11

Crossword... B10, 16
Editorials... B12
Local... D1
Movies... B9

Obituaries... B4
Sports... C1
Television... B8
The South... B1

Chamber Music
Charleston: 2 for 1 tickets to Carnival of the Animals.
See A2

Poll: Browns fans say start Shaw, C1

Brrr! Spurrier takes ALS Ice Bucket Challenge, C1

The State

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 2014 | THESTATE.COM

Military equipment prepares law enforcement to better handle more dangerous situations in Midlands

The Columbia Police Department got this MRAP Mine Resistant Ambush Protected vehicle, from Fort Bragg, N.C., two years ago. "It is the only piece of armored equipment that the city of Columbia has ever had," says Capt. Earle Marsh.

Humvees, helicopters part of local arsenals

By JOHN MONK
jmonk@thestate.com

Back in 2003, Richland County Sheriff Leon Lott watched from afar as a band of Abbeville extremists killed two law enforcement officers and held off a small army of other officers for 14 hours.

"I realized we didn't have anything here in Richland that could handle a situation like that," Lott said.

For Columbia police Capt.

SEE MILITARY PAGE A5

The Department of Defense's 1033 Program distributed excess military property.

THESTATE.COM

See a photo gallery with this story.

INSIDE

A tally of local law agencies' surplus military equipment. Page A5

BULL STREET

City hires architects to design stadium

Missouri's Populous Inc. will be paid about $2 million

By CLIF LeBLANC
clblanc@thestate.com

Columbia decided Tuesday to pay a Missouri-based architectural firm $2 million to design and oversee construction of the stadium in the Bull Street neighborhood.

City Council voted to hire Populous Inc. of Kansas City for $2,025,000. Architects are to meet with city staffers as well as with master developer Bob Hughes and minor league team owner Jason Freier for them to review the designs. Part of the architects' duties will be to keep the project on budget, assistant city manager Missy Gentry has said.

Populous bills itself as "a group of innovators, ground breakers and visionaries." The company's website states, "We design with futures in mind."

Populous has offices in six U.S. cities - with the closest in Knoxville, Tenn. - and seven cities overseas, the website states. The company has had a hand in designing venues for the 2012 London Olympics. Other projects the company helped design are stadiums, including USC's baseball stadium, as well as arenas, tennis centers and

SEE STADIUM PAGE A4

dealsaver™

TODAY'S DEAL

THE CHICKEN SHACK

$5 for $10 for breakfast or $10 for $20 for dinner!

Go to columbia.dealsaver.com.

Aiken Standard

YOUR LOCAL NEWS SOURCE SINCE 1867

WEDNESDAY, August 20, 2014

AIKENSTANDARD.COM

Vol. 148, No. 232 Aiken, S.C. ★ 75¢

Project Jackson progresses

BY SCOTT RODGERS
editorial@aikenstandard.com

After weeks of speculation, the decision has been made: Project Jackson will move forward.

According to Belton Zeigler, the City of North Augusta's lead attorney, S.C. Circuit Court Judge J. Ernest Kinard has informed both

Circuit Court Judge J. Ernest Kinard rules in favor of City of North Augusta plaintiff Steve Donohue and the defense, the City, that he ruled with the City on all points.

"We haven't gotten a final, signed copy of the document quite yet," Zeigler said. "The judge's office notified us yesterday (Monday) evening that they would be sending a signed copy of the order to the Clerk of Court in

Aiken County."

Project Jackson is a proposed 457-acre development, possibly consisting of a hotel, stores and a baseball stadium. It will be located between The River Club and Hammond's Ferry neighborhoods in North Augusta.

Please see PROJECT, Page 14A

INSIDE TODAY

Hazel looking to fulfill dream with Dolphins
Sports, 1B

Facebook Dinner Club recipe of the week
Living on the Go, 1C

Texas Gov. Perry booked on abuse of power
National News, 6A

AREA DEATHS

Edwena P. Chavous-Wimberly, Aiken
Henry Scurry, Irmo
Iva Mae Twiggs Adams, Aiken
J.C. Tindal Jr., Wagener
James David Chandler, Salley
Daphne "Dee" Garvin Outlaw, Wagener
Richard D. "Dick" Gantt, Marion, Ohio
Stephen Mark Smith, Aiken
Deaths and Funerals, 6A

WEATHER

'It makes me feel good'

STAFF PHOTO BY DEDE BILES

Bill LeMay relaxes between practice sessions during an adaptive golf clinic at Houndslake Country Club on Tuesday. The Augusta-based Walton Foundation for Independence is teaming up with The First Tee of Aiken to offer the clinics on a monthly basis at Houndslake.

Adaptive golf program at Houndslake helps people with disabilities enjoy game

BY DEDE BILES
dbiles@aikenstandard.com

A new adaptive golf program based at Houndslake Country Club is helping Bill LeMay and other people with physical disabilities get back into the swing of things.

"Every once in a while, I hit a shot like I used to be able to, and it makes me feel good," said LeMay, who must be connected to a source of oxygen at all times because of health problems.

A retired geologist who moved to Aiken in 2007, LeMay was among the eight golfers that showed up for Tuesday's clinic. Last month's inaugural clinic at Houndslake attracted five participants.

Please see GOLF, Page 5A

STAFF PHOTO BY DEDE BILES

William "Jake" Trier takes a swing during an adaptive golf clinic at Houndslake Country Club on Tuesday.

Rally in Alley to raise police dog funds

BY TEDDY KULMALA
tkulmala@aikenstandard.com

The Alley will shut down Friday night for a college football kick-off party, the proceeds of which will go toward the purchase of a police dog in memory of a slain Aiken officer.

Pep Rally in The Alley will take place from 6 to 11 p.m. in The Alley.

"We noticed that people really

Rogers

Medicine, one of the event's sponsors. "So many people are ready for football season, so we decided we would kick things off a week early and try to do something fun, something special in The Alley."

foods, music provided by a disc jockey, raffles and prizes. There will also be games, including a cornhole tournament and a ring toss tournament.

"Basically, we're going to transform The Alley into a college tailgate," Jordan said. "It's gonna be like you've walked onto a college campus."

The Game Dudes of Augusta will be providing a mobile video game station where a video game football

Donations, as well as entrance fees for the tournaments, will go toward the purchase of a police canine in memory of Master Cpl. Sandy Rogers of the Aiken Department of Public Safety.

Rogers was shot and killed in the line of duty on Jan. 28, 2012.

Her sister, Jenny, started a fundraising initiative in March to purchase a police canine named "Sandman" in Rogers' memory. The cost for a new puppy and train-

The Beaufort Gazette

WEDNESDAY, August 20, 2014

beaufortgazette.com

Established in 1897 75 cents

Aerospace's impact in SC: $17B

Study values military bases at $9.4 billion, says they provide 36,600 jobs

By MATT McNAB
 mmcnab@islandpacket.com
 843-706-8125

Boeing's arrival in the Charleston area has helped make the aerospace industry a $17.4 billion enterprise in South Carolina, with four military air bases around the state accounting for most of the impact, according to a study by the University of South Carolina's Moore School of Business.

The four bases — Marine Corps Air Station Beaufort, Joint Base Charleston, Shaw Air Force Base in Sumter and McEntire Joint National Guard Base in Eastover — employ more than 36,600 people and have an economic impact of about $9.4 billion, according to the study released Tuesday.

The aerospace private sector is catching up to the military, however, thanks to huge job growth since 2007, research economist

Joseph Von Nessen said. The annual job-growth rate is 11.4 percent in the private sector, well above the 1.9 percent state average.

Von Nessen said the study, which took several months to complete, counted 466 aerospace companies statewide, topped by Boeing's operations in North Charleston.

Please see IMPACT on 9A

File • The Associated Press

Workers assemble Boeing 787 Dreamliners in December at the company's massive assembly plant in North Charleston.

Tax-incentive plan could give owners of historic property

REASONS TO REBUILD

DELAYNA EARLEY • Staff photo

This house at 1203 Prince St. was cited by Beaufort city planners as one that would be eligible for the Bailey Bill program. The program would freeze some properties' tax assessment at their pre-renovation value for 10 years.

"This bill would be revenue-neutral in the short term and revenue-positive in the long term."

Lauren Kelly, Beaufort project development planner

Bailey Bill heads to County Council for consideration

By ZACH MURDOCK • zmurdock@beaufortgazette.com • 843-706-8147

A rule that would give owners of historic properties in Beaufort a tax incentive to rehabilitate their buildings has received preliminary approval from a County Council committee.

Known as the Bailey Bill, the new program now heads to Beaufort County Council for approval at its meeting Aug. 25 on Hilton Head Island. Finance Committee members unanimously agreed Monday that the rule will help city planners revitalize historic Beaufort neighborhoods and allow the county to eventually expand its tax base.

"I liked the idea the first time I heard it, and I didn't expect any opposition on this," committee chairman Rick Caporale said.

Please see REBUILD on 9A

OFF HARBOR ISLAND

NC man drowns; family rescued

By LAURA OBERLE
 loberle@beaufortgazette.com
 843-706-8109

A North Carolina man drowned off Harbor Island on Tuesday, according to a Beaufort County Sheriff's Office news release.

Matthew Auten, 50, of Swannanoa, N.C., died as a result of accidental drowning, Coroner Ed Allen said Tuesday night.

The Lady's Island and Fripp Island fire departments responded at about 3:30 p.m. to a report of three people — Auten's wife and two children — stuck on the sandbar off Harbor and Hunting islands. The three were rescued.

Authorities then discovered a fourth person was missing.

Auten's body was recovered on the shore of Harbor Island shortly afterward, the Sheriff's Office said.

The Sheriff's Office is investigating.

IN JASPER COUNTY

Advocates of refuge speak out

Environmentalists are concerned that developing 5,000 acres for RiverPort could harm sensitive areas near a wildlife preserve.

By DAN BURLEY
 dburley@islandpacket.com
 843-706-8142

THE HARTSVILLE MESSENGER

Darlington County's News Leader Since 1893

50 CENTS

WEDNESDAY AUGUST 20, 2014

WWW.HARTSVILLEMESSENGER.COM

scribble.com

Darlington County

Former employee charged with theft

BY TRACI BRIDGES
SJI Media Group

DARLINGTON — A former employee of the Darlington County Economic Development Partnership was arrested Friday in connection with funds missing from the partnership's account.

Dana Elizabeth Howell, 26, is charged with breach of trust with fraudulent intent, value $10,000 or more, according to an arrest warrant issued by the State Law Enforcement Division.

Howell was employed with the Darlington County Economic Development Partnership as an administrative assistant and was entrusted with funds made payable to Darlington County Progress.

According to the warrant, "the defendant was only authorized to make deposits into the account of Darlington County Progress Inc."

On July 28, partnership executive director and acting Darlington County administrator Frank Willis filed a report with the Darlington Police Department, indicating Howell was supposed to deposit a check into the Darlington County Progress account but instead "cashed the check and used the money for her own benefit."

According to the initial report, the check was from the City of Hartsville general fund and was dated July 11. The report says Howell cashed the check for $11,646 on July 18 at the Dedicated Community Bank.

Willis told police Dedicated Community Bank officials contacted him about the matter and said Howell's name was signed on the back of the check with "cash" written at the top of the check.

SLED was asked to investigate

See THEFT, Page 3A

Nine on ballot for school board

BY JIM FALE
jfaled@hartsvillemessenger.com

DARLINGTON — The names of nine candidates for Darlington County Board of Education will appear on the ballot in the November general election.

Voters in school board Districts 1, 3, 5 and 7 will elect board members this year.

Former longtime board member Dr. Thelma Dawson filed before the deadline to run for the District 3 seat she once held. She is challenging incumbent Joyce Wingate Thomas for the seat. Dawson was the last candidate to file before the noon deadline

See BOARD, Page 3A

Man charged with running vehicle off road, injuring three

From staff reports:

An 18-year-old Hartsville man is facing charges of attempted murder after Darlington County law enforcement authorities say he intentionally ran a vehicle occupied by three juveniles off the road.

Starter Duke Byrd of 1273 Clyde School Road is charged with two counts of harassment first degree, three counts of attempted murder, one count of malicious injury to personal property and possession of a weapon during a violent crime, according to a news release from the Darlington County Sheriff's Office.

See BYRD, Page 3A

Each One Teach One

Zyreon and Keshayn Johnson pose with the Coker College Cobra mascot, Stryker, during the Each One Teach One Extravaganza on Friday at the T. B. Thomas Center at Byerly Park. School supplies were provided to all the children who participated.

MORE INSIDE

To see more from the Each One Teach One Extravaganza at T. B. Thomas Center see Page 1B

PHOTOS BY
ARDIE ARVIDSON /
THE HARTSVILLE MESSENGER

BELOW: Teresa Mack, left, leads children and adults in line dancing at the Each One Teach One Extravaganza on Friday afternoon at Byerly Park.

Like a Phoenix, risen from the ashes ... page 3A

INDEX-JOURNAL

www.indexjournal.com

2 SECTIONS, 20 PAGES

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 2014

DAILY 75¢, SUNDAY $1.50

County council exploring hospitality tax

By FRANK BUMB
fbumb@indexjournal.com

Restaurants, gas stations, food vendors and other establishments in the unincorporated portions of Greenwood County could see a tax on the sale of prepared meals, food and beverages.

Greenwood County Councilman Steve Brown raised the possibility of council adding the tax in the future at the county council's Administration and Finance Committee meeting

Tuesday evening.

Brown cited the success of the city of Greenwood's hospitality tax in funding projects as well as a call for Greenwood County Council to fund more projects by residents.

"People see the things that the city is doing with its hospitality tax and other programs that are happening, like the (Connect Lake Greenwood) group and have been coming up to me saying, 'Why don't y'all do something like that?'" Brown said.

"So I wanted to know how much funding we would get from that so about three weeks ago I approached (Greenwood County Manager) Toby (Chappell) about getting a number on that."

See TAX, page 4A

BACK TO SCHOOL

D50 schools open for learning

By KATE HRUBY
khruby@indexjournal.com

For Northside Middle School principal Cynthia Storer, the start of a new school year still means sleepless nights.

"The first day is always exciting. Even after all these years, I can't sleep the night before school starts," Storer said Tuesday. "I'm like a student in that way."

Northside is home to the Advancement Via Individual Determination program, a program whose main purpose is to prepare students to be college- and career-ready, and emphasizes best teaching practices in writing, organization, inquiry, collaboration, and reading.

And on Tuesday, the district's first official day for classes, students jumped right in.

In AVID related arts and math teacher Laura Bentley's class, students began to develop skills in inquiry through an activity called "Baggage Claim." Students

See OPEN, page 4A

Students in Robin Templeton's ACTS class at Brewer Middle School link arms to form a circle during a class activity Tuesday for District 50's first day back.

Springfield closed following outage

By KATE HRUBY
khruby@indexjournal.com

Springfield Elementary School will be closed Wednesday following a school-wide power outage Tuesday, Greenwood School District 50 announced in a press release issued late Tuesday afternoon.

Students were evacuated from Springfield Elementary on Tuesday morning because of a complete power outage caused by a short in the school's main electrical panel. The district said a company in Raleigh, North Carolina, is currently building a new electrical panel to replace the one that shorted.

"Our number-one priority is to have a safe campus for all of our students and staff," Johnson said in the release. "We are hoping that the problem can be corrected expeditiously."

The district has not yet made a decision on whether Springfield will open Thursday.

All students and faculty were evacuated on District 50 buses to the Emerald High School gymnasium Tuesday, where they awaited dismissal. No students or staff were hurt in the incident.

Early Tuesday afternoon, Johnson said he was proud of Springfield principal Alyson Perrin and her staff for responding promptly and calmly to the incident.

Ninety Six teachers want students ready

By FRANK BUMB
fbumb@indexjournal.com

NINETY SIX — Every day in education is different, Ninety Six High School principal Rex Ward said.

Few days contain the hope and, for at least a few students, misery the first day of school brings.

"It's school, so I can't say I'm too happy," said Andrew Bryant, a junior at Ninety Six. Even the prospect of seeing friends in school wasn't enough to cut through the doldrums of the first day.

"I can see my friends during the summer anyway."

See NEW YEAR, page 4A

INSIDE: McCormick begins a new school year, 2A

Index-Journal staffers earn 22 Palmys

From staff reports

The Index-Journal received 22 awards in the S.C. Press Association's Palmy competition this year. The awards are given for advertising graphic art

"This is the most we have ever earned. It shows our commitment and continuous

the Sumter ITEM

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 2014 75 CENTS
SERVING SOUTH CAROLINA SINCE OCTOBER 13, 1894

3 SECTIONS, 24 PAGES | VOL. 119, NO. 262

FOOD

Grilling desserts?

Throw on this summer fruit crisp when you take the steak off cs

PANORAMA

The Josh Brannon Band brings mix of country, country rock to Fourth Fridays this week c1

LOCAL

Fire Ants invite you to their extravaganza on Saturday A2

DEATHS, B7

Phillip M. Lewellyn
Samuel Curtis
Josephine R. Montgomery
Deloris B. Wright
James F. Hafner III
James A. Burns
H. Lowell Carrigan
Alice V. Canthey
Peggy Shirah

WEATHER, A8

GETTING A LITTLE HOTTER

Partly sunny today; humid tonight
HIGH 93, LOW 74

INSIDE

Classifieds B8
Comics C6
Lotteries A8
Opinion A7
Television C7

CONTACT US

Info: 774-1200
Advertising: 774-1237
Classifieds: 774-1234
Delivery: 774-1258
News and Sports:
774-1226

VISIT US ONLINE AT theitem.com

Ferguson pledges outreach efforts after shooting death

Protesters urged to remain home

BY NIGEL DUARA
The Associated Press

FERGUSON, Mo. — Ferguson's leaders urged residents Tuesday to stay home after dark to "allow peace to settle in" and pledged several actions to reconnect with the predominantly black community in the St. Louis suburb where the fatal shooting of 18-year-old Michael Brown has sparked nightly clashes between protesters and police.

According to a statement from the city, Ferguson's mayor, city council and other employees have been exploring how to increase the number of black applicants to the law enforcement academy, develop incentive programs to encourage city residency for police officers and raise money for cameras that would be attached to patrol car dashboards and officers' vests.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Aug. 9 shooting of Michael Brown by a police officer has touched off rancorous protests in the St. Louis suburb of Ferguson, Missouri.

"We plan to learn from this tragedy, as we further provide for the safety of our residents and businesses and progress our community through reconciliation and healing," the leaders said in the statement Tuesday.

Benjamin Crump, an attorney for Brown's family, said the 18-year-old's funeral and memorial service would be Monday, though the time and location haven't been finalized.

The National Guard arrived in Ferguson on Monday but kept its

SEE FERGUSON, PAGE A6

Work on Lafayette bridge has begun

MAIT WALSH / THE SUMTER ITEM

Work begins on the Lafayette Drive bridge Tuesday afternoon. The bridge is expected to be closed for more than a year while South Carolina Department of Transportation employees work to replace the structure.

Shooting suspect turns himself in

Violence continues in South Sumter

BY ROB COTTINGHAM
rob@theitem.com
(803) 774-1225

Authorities with Sumter Police Department were again searching for a shooting suspect Tuesday after he reportedly opened fire on a Sampson Street home recently.

Terrance Deangelo Haynesworth, 32, of 19 Sampson St., returned himself in Tuesday evening in connection with discharging a firearm into a dwelling after an argument escalated into gunplay Monday.

sponded to a home in the 20 block of Sampson Street on Monday night in reference to shots being fired. When they arrived, a 39-year-old woman told officers that she and Haynesworth got into an argument earlier that night about him loitering on her property.

Haynesworth then reportedly pulled out a gun and fired a single round, striking the door. The victim said she ran inside, and as she was ducking for cover, Haynesworth reportedly ran to the side of the house and fired another round through a window of the home.

The victim was one of three occupants inside the home during Monday's shooting marks at least the second shooting in the past six months in which Haynesworth has been accused, including another incident on Sampson Street in February.

According to reports, Haynesworth got into an argument with a 48-year-old man about money on Jan. 31. Tensions rose, and as the argument escalated, Haynesworth reportedly shot the victim in the leg with a handgun. He turned himself in the following Wednesday and was charged with assault and battery of a high and aggravated nature. Before turning himself in Tuesday, Haynesworth was out on a $10,000 surety bond for the charge.

The Haynesworth name has become closely associated with re-

HAYNESWORTH

'OUR BEST GUY'
Tigers' Gore in line for starting role after solid camp. C1

MUDDIN': Fearsome Four prepare for Seneca Mud Slam, K-9 benefit. B1
FAILED ATTEMPT: Gaza cease-fire efforts collapse in heavy fighting. D1

Oconee OKs $200K more for 'frustrating' broadband project

Wayne McCall:
'We can't keep going like this'

BY STEVEN BRADLEY
THE JOURNAL

WALHALLA — After admitting Project FOCUS has become a "frustrating" endeavor, Oconee County Council voted unanimously Tuesday to approve $200,000 more toward maintenance services for the broadband project.

The consensus, it seemed, is it's too late to turn back now. Concerns were expressed during the public comment session over the project's cost to taxpayers and extended time-frame — with one commenter pointing to an article in Tuesday's edition of The Journal in which some Internet service providers (ISPs) voiced displea-

'It's not just a fart in the wind that we just don't know what we're doing.'

Scott Moulder
Oconee County administrator

SEE BROADBAND, PAGE A3

Coming HOME

US Army sergeant surprises wife with return at school

BY GREG OLIVER
THE JOURNAL

WESTMINSTER — Nikki Rowland, a special education teacher at Westminster Elementary School, didn't understand why a staff member needed to take photos of teachers in her classroom near the end of the school day Tuesday.

However, when asked to step outside her room, Rowland discovered the photos were only a ruse. Instead, she saw the real reason in the form of her husband, U.S. Army Sgt. Joseph Rowland, who had been away for the past 14 months following his deployment to Iraq.

Stunned, but happy, Nikki responded to her husband,

SEE HOME, PAGE A5

JESSICA NELMS | THE JOURNAL

Westminster Elementary special education teacher Nikki Rowland is jubilant Tuesday after seeing her husband, Joseph, a sergeant in the U.S. Army, for the first time since his deployment to Iraq 14 months ago. Joseph surprised his wife by returning home earlier than expected, and Westminster principal Chad Lusk arranged the school visit.

Walhalla fire kills 1

THE JOURNAL STAFF

WALHALLA — One person died in a structure fire inside the city limits of Walhalla on Tuesday night.

Walhalla fire chief Doug Kelley confirmed the fatality on North Andover Drive in Walhalla. When contacted after 11 p.m. Tuesday night, Kelley declined to give any other details and said his department was just beginning its investigation.

Kelley said officials with the S.C. Law Enforcement Division (SLED) were on the way to the scene to assist in the investigation.

The fire was reported shortly after 9:30 p.m., and initial reports indicated a building was on fire with a male still inside.

Oktoberfest changes brew concerns

BY CARLOS GALARZA-VEVE
THE JOURNAL

WALHALLA — At the request of Walhalla mayor Danny Edwards, city officials unanimously tabled proposed changes to the Oktoberfest celebration unveiled a few weeks ago until the ideas are fully vetted and a consensus is reached.

Following the action at the city council meeting Tuesday night, Edwards asked council member

SEE OKTOBERFEST, PAGE A6

Lofts construction back on track

BY GREG OLIVER
THE JOURNAL

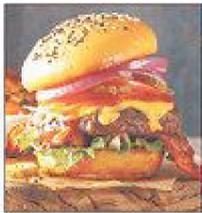

CLEMSON — Clemson city administrator Rick work order for failure to follow stormwater regulations, but they had the inspection last Friday and the order was lifted." Cot-the DHEC action came because The Clemson Lofts project, an off-campus complex on Cochran Drive, was out of compliing The Clemson Lofts, appeared before city council earlier this month to request modification of the order. Sweet said

Morning News

WEDNESDAY AUGUST 20, 2014

TODAY'S WEATHER
Partly sunny.
High 94 Low 72
DETAILS 2A

www.2cn.com

The Voice of the Pee Dee

75 cents

Darlington Raceway

Race date reportedly moving again

Raceway president won't confirm

BY LOU BEZJAK
Morning News
bezjak@florencenews.com

DARLINGTON — NASCAR might be on the verge of giving fans in the Pee Dee what they've wanted for the past decade: a race on Labor Day weekend at Darlington Raceway.

Media reports have Darlington's race date being moved to Labor Day, a spot it held from 1950-2003 on NASCAR's schedule.

On Monday, The Bristol (Va.) Herald Courier and Sirius XM's Jim Noble reported Darlington would take Atlanta's Labor Day weekend slot. Atlanta's date would move to March and Bristol's spring race date would switch to April, the spot Darlington occupied in this year's schedule.

Two sources well connected with NASCAR confirmed the news Tuesday to the Morning

News but did not want to be identified.

Bristol has struggled with its spring date because of colder temperatures and sagging attendance in recent years.

Darlington's date has bounced around in the past decade. In 2004, Darlington's fall race date was moved from Labor Day weekend to November, and the track lost one of its two dates in 2005. Its lone date was held on Mother's Day weekend from 2005-13 and moved to April this

GAVIN JACKSON/MORNING NEWS

Kyle Busch burns out after winning the VFW Sports Clips Help A Hero 200 Nationwide Series race at Darlington Raceway.

See RACEWAY, Page 4A

PHOTOS BY VEASEY CONWAY/MORNING NEWS

A portrait of Jeannette Glenn is unveiled. Glenn served in a variety of roles at McLeod over almost 45 years of service, notably nursing and education work. "I began my career in 1966," she said. "It's been a journey. A wonderful journey."

McLeod portrait unveiling

Two honored for dedication to hospital community

BY VEASEY CONWAY
Morning News
vconway@florencenews.com

FLORENCE — In a gathering far larger than the number of available chairs, the McLeod Regional Medical Center honored two longtime hospital workers with painted portraits Tuesday evening; the paintings will eventually be hung in a hallway alongside some of McLeod's most notable individuals.

Jeannette Glenn, who started her

Jeannette Glenn is hugged Tuesday evening at McLeod Regional Medical Center, after a portrait of her was unveiled.

Oscar Hardman congratulates fellow chaplain Margaret Saverance Tuesday after a portrait of her was unveiled at McLeod Regional Medical Center. "Her dedication

Special Fire District still under a microscope

Use of ordinances at the heart of lawsuit

BY GAVIN JACKSON
Morning News
gjackson@florencenews.com

FLORENCE — A Charleston County judge will preside over a trial in September in Florence involving an appeal two citizens filed against a Florence County ordinance that dissolved rural fire department tax districts in May. That ordinance preceded another one that created the county's unified fire protection district.

This comes after Judge J. C. Nicholson, Jr., heard arguments from county attorneys Steve Matthews and Malloy McEachin, Jr., and attorney Jay Jordan representing John C. Floyd and Rebecca Crawford in Charleston last Thursday.

Nicholson was chosen by state Supreme Court Chief Justice Jean Toal to preside over the hearing and trial due to the political nature of the district. On Sept. 22, Nicholson will hear more details of the appeal in a Florence County courtroom.

The appeal centers on Floyd and Crawford contesting the county's ability to dissolve the prior fire tax districts in order to create a consolidated fire district with a unified tax rate. Floyd resides in the Howe Springs Fire District area and Crawford in the now West Florence Fire special purpose district the legislature created in May—shortly after Florence County Council approved the unified fire district on May 15.

In the county ordinance, No. 17-2013/14, the county cites the statute it used to dissolve the districts while the Floyd and Crawford appeal alleges the county used another to do so.

Last Thursday, Nicholson did not rule on the county's motion to dismiss the appeal nor on Jordan's temporary restraining order to stop

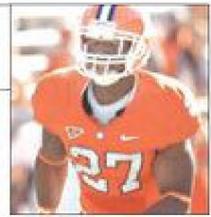

CORNY IDEAS

10 fresh ways to dress corn on the cob, A8

FOOTBALL RECAP

Connor Shaw, Robert Smith, Mike Matulis and Braxton Miller ... B1-B3

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 2014

The Times and Democrat

75 CENTS • ORANGEBURG, SOUTH CAROLINA

TheTandD.com

3 SECTIONS, 22 PAGES • VOL. 153 • NO. 232

Bill Cosby is coming again to help Claflin.

Famed entertainer Bill Cosby to headline Claflin gala

By DIONNE GLEATON
T&D Staff Writer

Fifteen years after speaking at Claflin University's commencement, world-renowned comedian Bill Cosby is returning to help the institution raise $1 million.

Cosby will headline Claflin's 20th Anniversary Visionary Leadership Gala, which is set for 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 18, at the Columbia Metropolitan Convention Center.

The purpose of the gala is to raise $1 million in support of student scholarships and establish an endowed chair in honor of President Dr. Henry N. Tisdale and First Lady Alice Carson Tisdale. It is the 20th anniversary of the Tisdales leading the university. University employees who have served at least 20 years will also be honored during the gala.

Cosby has always been a passionate supporter of historically black colleges and universities and has a special relationship with Claflin University, Assistant Vice President of Communications and Marketing Charlene Slaughter said.

"He's such a champion of HBCUs, and this is just an opportunity that came about that he was able to come and headline this event," Slaughter said. "We're real excited about having him here. It's not a new thing. He has a relationship with Claflin, so it's kind of like bringing back an old friend."

Cosby served as keynote speaker during Claflin's 1999 commencement.

Slaughter said Cosby has been visiting HBCUs around the country. While his appearance at the gala is not connected to that, she said the university is thrilled to have him headline the event.

See COSBY, A3

DAY 66

LARRY HANCOCK/T&D

Volkswagen Drag Nights and meets are held at Orangeburg Drag Strip. The track is home to Pro Modified drag racing, bracket racing, grudge racing, junior dragsters and motor bike racing.

100 OBJECTS IN 100 DAYS

Opened in 1961, Orangeburg Drag Strip still the place to race

T&D Staff Report

The roar of engines has been heard at Orangeburg Drag

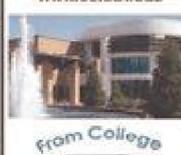

At TheTandD.com

- The stories to date
- Photo gallery of objects

Sponsored by:

SUPPORT ORANGEBURG COUNTY, SHOP LOCAL!
155 Riverside Dr. • 803-534-6821

FERGUSON SHOOTING

Town promises outreach efforts to effect change

By NIGEL DURKA
Associated Press

FERGUSON, Mo. — Ferguson's leaders urged residents Tuesday to stay home after dark to "allow peace to settle in" and pledged several actions to reconnect with the predominantly black community in the St. Louis suburb where the fatal shooting of 18-year-old Michael Brown has sparked nightly clashes between protesters and police.

According to a statement from the city, Ferguson's mayor, City Council and other employees have been exploring how to increase the number of African-American applicants to the law enforcement academy, development programs to encourage city residency

See AFTERMATH, A3

Police: St. Louis officers kill knife wielder

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A large crowd, some chanting "Hands up, don't shoot," gathered Tuesday at the site where St. Louis police officers shot and killed a knife-wielding man after a reported convenience store robbery.

The shooting happened just a few miles from Ferguson, where the fatal shooting of Michael Brown has touched off days of sometimes violent protests.

■ Follow the latest on these stories at TheTandD.com's Hot Topic with coverage from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Calhoun County schools boosting literacy efforts

By DALE LINDER-ALTMAN
T&D Staff Writer

Calhoun County Public Schools will focus on improving literacy this school year, Director of Curriculum and Academics Christa Mundaugh said.

"We plan to have an intense focus on reading achievement because it affects all the other subjects," she

Brian Symmes

Cell: (803) 673-9437

Direct Line: (803) 734-0304