The Honorable Nikki Haley
Governor of South Carolina
State House
P.O. Box 11369
Columbia, South Carolina 29211

Dear Governor Haley:

Linda McMahon, former CEO of World Wrestling Entertainment, knows a thing or two about women and leadership. She began her company with her husband, Vince, at a time when they once served as the only full-time employees. Every day she fought to overcome the challenges businesses face and she succeeded – today World Wrestling Entertainment is an international enterprise with more than 800 employees.

As a leader in business and a former Republican nominee for U.S. Senate, Linda understands the challenges that women confront today in reaching the senior levels of corporate America. As she says, her true passion is “helping and mentoring young women who are just entering the workforce or starting a business or looking to advance their careers.”

I have enclosed an interview with Linda that appeared in LEADERS Magazine about what women can do to overcome the challenges they face. I’m sure you’ll find the piece to be insightful and illuminating.

If you would like to talk with Linda, please contact Kate Duffy at kate@mcmahonventures.com.
