Subject: Hey Chaney.. is the Gov having conversations about VP?

I know that she's said she's not interested. But the Post has a story saying she was quoted at an event telling folks that she has "talked to people that are in the know."

The clip is below.. Could you help clarify for us? Thanks so much for your help!

From Wash Post...

While at a campaign event in Virginia for gubernatorial candidate Ed Gillespie, Nikki Haley hinted that there have been conversations about joining the ticket. "I have said I'm not going to run for VP or interested in VP," she said, adding: "I have not talked to any of his surrogates. I have talked to people that are in the know."
