GOVERNOR WOLF LAUNCHES NETWORK OF CARE SITE FOR VETERANS, ACTIVE MILITARY AND THEIR FAMILIES

November 10, 2016

Harrisburg, PA – Governor Tom Wolf today joined Adjutant General Anthony Carrelli and Secretary of Human Services Ted Dallas to announce the launch of the Network of Care site for veterans, military members and their families, which seeks to centralize services and benefits available to them.

“I am proud to be here to announce the creation of a valuable new service that seeks to enhance and improve our outreach to Pennsylvania veterans, service members and their families,” Governor Wolf said. “The Pennsylvania Network of Care will streamline information about support and resources together in one place for our veterans. It will significantly reduce the confusion and complexity faced by our brave men and women and their families when looking for the services that they have earned by making the ultimate sacrifice for our nation. And it ensures that they have access to the support they need when returning home from duty.” Watch a news video of the announcement.

The Pennsylvania Network of Care provides information that is accessible by computer or mobile device and can be accessed by visiting the Network of Care Site. The website allows veterans to find services in all 67 counties.

The Network of Care is a highly interactive, locally based Web portal that can be used by service members; military families, veterans, and those who support them (such as community-based organizations and local and state governments) to quickly access a wide variety of important information relating to local, state and national social services.

A sample of the comprehensive, local information that will be provided for each county in Pennsylvania includes:

- News from all over the country;
- Personal Health Records;
- Community Calendars;
- Peer support and advocacy;
- 80 language translations;
- Social networking;
- All services by category and location, regardless of how they are funded;
- A remarkable Job Board that can drill down to jobs by category that are reserved for veterans in a given county;
- A state-of-the-art Library of all conditions, injuries, medications, treatments, assessment tools and online recovery programs;
- Crisis intervention and emergency services.
